Peace Is Still The Big Task

Tribute to New And Old Soldiers As Nations Observe Armistice Day

By The Associated Press

". . . it is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us . . ."

The words were said long ago in a lull of battle, and they were said again today as the world paused once more to observe the lost peace of armistice.

Around the world, the lawmakers, the potentates and the chiefs of governments spoke of peace. But they spoke of it as a thing, not possessed, but hoped for . . . and once again, to be fought for.

Extolling the fallen dead of old wars, as Lincoln extolled the falen of Gettysburg, the speakers said: We must carry on their fight.

To keep faith with our dead, Maj. Gen. Roscoe B. Woodruff, of the First Army, said in New York, Americans must rededicate "ourseves to their unfinished task."

These were old words that whistled through the back pages of time down through the "war to end wars" and past an impermanent armistice through a second world war to another peace, that again was almost not peace.

Victors Still Guard

In defeated Germany, which had kindled the flames of two world wars, the victors still stood guard. But there was no jubilance commemorating a lasting victory.

There, in the land that marks the divinding ground of a new, smouldering conflict, Gen. Thomas T. Handy, head of the U. S. Army's European command, spoke of those who had died:

"We can pay them no greater tribute than to pledge ourselves anew to carry on their battle for peace and freedom."

In the nation's capital, America's Chief of Defense, Gen. George C. Marshall stood in Arlington cemetery among the buried generals and military heroes.

"We can do nothing to restore life to these men," he said. "But we can keep faith with them, remembering and honoring their sacrifices and doing our very best to support the ideas they courageously represented."

The theme echoed throughout the western world, as paraders marched in New York, wreaths were placed in Canada, jet planes streaked over Paris, silent crowds gathered at flower-covered tombs, and cannon boomed the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month —recalling the moment of peace 30 years ago.

Seek Divine Guidance

And in the churches and synagogues, people sought divine guidance for the future.

But amid the whispered prayers for peace, there were the grim tokens of new battle.

Standing beside Madison Square's eternal light, New York city's new mayor, Vincent R. Impellitteri, paused in his Memorial address before a flag-studded gathering of troops and civilians.

"We are in danger," he said. "Our nation is at odds with a relentless force without ethics or morality.

"As we stand in a great city like this, it seems inmpossible that it could ever disappear. Yet not only great cities but great civilizations have disappeared."

The danger that he and countless other Armistice speakers saw was Communism. Some pointed to the father of Communism—Russia.

Every young man in the country," William T. Collins, a New York American Legion official, said, "Will have to be at least fundamentally prepared. There will be no year or two to get ready for the next war."

Maj. Gen. Julius Ochs Adler, commander of the 77th infantry division which this week was holding a national reunion of its comrades of the last war, told the veteran fighters:

"We are fully aware of the menace xxx and we have given fresh evidence, in Korea, that it will be resolutely met."

In far - off Korea — in the flame-charred peninsula of fresh death — Maj. Gen. David Barr prayed beside the American cemetery near Punchong where dead of his Seventh Division are buried.

"I fervently hope," he said, "that peace will soon return to the world and our gallant soldiers can return home to their wives and families."

President to Return To Washington Today

ABOARD PRESS YACHT MY MARY GAIL, Nov. 11 — (AP) — President Truman will return to Washington late tomorrow afternoon, after a vacation cruise that is winding up in bad weather.

On his return, he will face the question of whether to recall Congress earlier than its scheduled Nov. 27 reconvening date.

Mr. Truman, who has been traveling on the White House yacht Williamsburg in Chesapeake Bay and Tributary waters, stayed below deck today as cold winds whipped the St. Mary's river with flurries of sleet and snow.

Gigantic Plan In Financing By A.T. and T.

Vote to be Taken On Billion Capital Stock Increase

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 — (AP) — Stockholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. will vote Wednesday (Nov. 15) on a proposed billion-dollar increase in capital stock.

This deal promises to be the biggest single private financing operation in history. And it involves on a giant scale a question of financial policy that has intrigued the most learned and experienced minds in Wall Street.

The question is this: Whether, in raising new money to expand your business, it's better to sell additional shares of stock, on which you want to maintain a specific dividend rate, or to borrow the money at a lower interest rate but to put a mortage on the property and obligate yourself for interest payments that have to be met, come what may.

The A. T. and T. policy is that the Bell System's funded debt should not exceed one third of its total capital, although the percentage is now a little over 48 and has run over one-half. The new financing plan emphasizes the company's intentions of trying to continue to raise a major portion of its new money from sale of stock.

The financing plan for approval is to enable the Bell System—A. T. and T. and its subsidiary companies—to continue its massive expansion program that has cost five billion dollars since the war.

What Is Proposes

The plan consists of the following:

1. An increae in authorized capital stock of the company from 35,000,000 shares, of $100 par value, to 45,000,000 shares.

2. Authorization of a new issue of convertible debentures in an amount not to exceed $435,000,000. Enuogh shares to redeem these debentures would be reserved from the new 45,000,000 limit.

3. Approval of a new employes' stock plan under which up to 3,-000,000 additional shares of stock may be sold to employes of the company and its subsidiaries. These shares also would come under the new ceiling.

The stockholders action — and overwhelming approval is expected—will merely authorize the program. Actual financing operations will be determined later by action of the board of directors.

In the proxy statement to stockholders, the company says the demand ofr new telephones continues heavy, with 800,000 persons waiting for telephones and 1,700,000 customers now on party lines asking for higher classes of service. Expenditures for new construction, it said, are running at the rate of nearly a bllion dollars a year.

May Not Pass a Profits Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—(AP)—Signs increased today that Congress may not pass an excess profits tax bill at its coming "lame duck" session.

The tax writing house ways and means committee meets Wednesday in advance of the post election session to begin hearings on such a tax, bitterly opposed by many businessmen.

A number of factors were cited by Capitol Hill tax experts as working against any sure fire action before this Congress gives away to the new 82nd Congress in January.

1. The physicial limitations of time in the short "lame duck" session. More than 200 applications have been accepted from individuals wanting to appear, and the committee has been forced to reject additional applications still flooding in.

2. The temper of legislators in the light of last Tuesday's elections gains by the Republicans.

The Treasury Department's position will be outlined to the committee at the start of the hearings. Either Secretary of the Treasury Snyder or his representatives probably will be the first witness when the hearings get under way Wednesday morning.

Armistice Day Observed At Court House

Address Is Given By The Rev. W. P. Arnold at Ceremony

Several hundred persons attended the Armistice day observances held before the steps of the Pettis county court house Saturday morning at 10:45 o'clock. The Smith-Cotton high school band played selections and baton twirlers performed. The group was directed by Miss Geraldine Teufel, music instructor at the high school.

After an invocation by Thomas W. Croxton, one minute of silence was observed. The master of ceremonies introduced the Rev. A. J. Brunswick, pastor of Sacred Heart church, who said it was a tribute for people to gather to pay homage to the glorious ideals of lasting peace when they hardly know they have won victory, that the world stands in danger of losing faith. He said, "Let us not lose heart, let us have before us the ideals of Christian peace . . . for it is better to die a glorious death for these ideals than to live a bitter life."

Rev. W. P. Arnold was then presented. He spoke of a recent trip to the Arlington National cemetery and the tomb of the unknown soldier there, then merged with it the statue of the grenade throwing "doughboy" of our town, to combine the subject. He said these unknown soldiers not only represented the unknown dead, but the known dead, the living and the forgotten living. He spoke of standing before the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington cemetery and of the impression of hearing a voice from the tomb which said, "I have tossed to you a torch, if you fail, we fail."

The flag of the United States and the Missouri state flag were lowered to half mast as a gold star mother placed a wreath at the case of the doughboy statue. She was Mrs. Oma Burke, who is a member of Post 258 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion Auxiliary. She was escorted to the statue by the Seventh District Commander of the American Legion, Ermin Taylor, of Blackburn.

A firing squad from the National Guard gave a military salute and the Rev. F. C. Wharry gave a benediction.

Armstrong Wins In Final Count

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 11—(AP)—Missouri will have three Republican representatives in the 82nd Congress.

O. K. Armstrong, Republican challenger of incumbent George H. Christopher, came out ahead in the close sixth district race after counting of the absentee ballots was completed today in the 11-county west-central Missouri district.

Armstrong had 55,230 and Christopher 53,664.

The other Republicans who won house seats in Tuesday's election were Dewey Short, incumbent in the seventh district and Thomas Curtis, who defeated incumbent Raymond Karst in the 12th of St. Louis.

Victory for Armstrong breaks a tie between the two parties in sixth. Since it was organized in 1933 it has been reperented four times by Democrats and four times by Republicans.

This year everyone predicted it would be a close race between the 57-year-old Springfield Baptist leader and free lance writer, and the big husky farmer, of near Butler. They put on a slam-bang campaign.

Armstrong, whose initials stand for Orland Kay, campaigned against deficit spending in good times and declared that one of the first things he'd do is to "demand a cut back in Federal jobs to where they belong."

He served three terms as a state representative and in 1944 ran unsuccssfully for lieutenant governor.

Double Error to Light After Thirty-Eight Years

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 11—(AP)—Thirty eight years ago a double error about George K. Gilpin was made in the official Missouri manual.

Today it was called to his attention for the first time.

The book listed him as Democrat and as county auditor. He is a Republican and never did serve as auditor.

"I was county superintndent of schools and a Republican then as now," he said.

He also has served as presiding judge of the county court and county collector.

Optimist Week November 12-18

This week, November 12, through November 18, Optimist week is being observed throughout the nation and the Sedalia Optimist club will participate fully in proper recognition of the occasion.

In connection with the week and its significance Mayor Herb E. Studer issued a proclamation relative to better education for our youth, for which Optimists stand in which he stated the past thirty-five years have demonstrated the need for a better education of our youth so that the mistakes of past generations will not be repeated.

He stressed that Optimist clubs are devoting their efforts to the task of developing and rehabilitating boys into responsible men and in this he added the Sedalia Optimist club is performing a service of great value to Pettis county.

He further commended the service performed through the Optimists and appealed to all citizens to join in observing the week and in abiding by its policy as "A Friend of the Boy" and its recognition of the importance of "Today's Boy-Tomorrow's World."

Advance Of Allied Troops Breaks Lull In Northwest Korea

'Phone Service About Normal Over Weekend

Press Strike With New Intensity Next Week Say Officials

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—Company officials reported telephone service virtually back to normal today, but union sources indicated a nationwide strike of 33,000 telephone equipment workers would be pressed with new intensity next week.

One company official said the combination of Saturday and the Armistice Day holiday helped in the improvement of service.

Fewer Calls Made

There were fewer telephone calls than on a normal weekday, and in some areas pickets were withdrawn so workers could draw extra holiday pay. Operators, not on strike but reluctant to cross picket lines, thus were able to go to work.

Morris Iushewitz, New York CIO secretary-treasurer, said 30 CIO unions had been asked to provide pickets in the metropoliitan area next week if settlement of the wage and contract dispute between the CIO Communication Workers of America and the Western Electric Company is not settled by then.

He said similar action probably would be taken in other cities.

A new try for a management-unon agreement is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon by federal mediators. They planned separate conference meanwhile with both sides.

Unions Rejected Offer

The striking Equipment Workers now are understood to be asking a 15-cent-an-hour wage increase from the Western Electric Company, a subsidiary of American Telephone and Telepraph Company, and to have rejected a 11¼-cent-an-hour offer. Present wages range from $1.55 to $1.62 an hour. The union also wants a one year agreement while the company wants a 16 month contract.

A union spokesman said the union made a "package" demand of wages and other benefits adding up to an increase of 37.6 cents an hour last spring, later scaled the wage demand down to 11 cents, then raised it when the cost of living increased. Now the union says it wants a "reasonable wage increase."

Picketing Negligible

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 12—(AP)—If you live in the five-state area served by the Southwestern Bell Telphone Company you probably will have no trouble making telephone calls tonight or tomorrow.

Spokesmen for the company and Division 20 of the Communications Workers of America, CIO, agreed tonight that Western Electric picketing of Bell plants in the five state area was negligible today.

An Armistice Day check of service in the area showed the state? by-state situation as follows:

Missouri — "Unusually quiet," with no pickets around Bell buildings. Token pickets were at one Kansas City garage and a St. Louis Western Electric warehouse.

"The effect of the strike on service in the area today was negligible," A Southwestern Bell offiical said here tonight.

The same official refused to comment on a report that workers received premium pay for holiday work, and therefore picket lines were not established.

Frank P. Lonergan, vice president of Division 20, CWA, said premium pay had nothing to do with lack of pickets today.

Picketing "Not Worth Effort"

"We anticipate very little picketing today and tomorrow," he said, "Because very few workers are around on holidays. It would not be worth the effort."

Both company and union officials said they expect the union's hit-run strike would increase Monday.

Lonergan said the planned hit and run strike strategy of the union was designed to hit Bell buildings where supervisory employes were not stationed.

Sheriff Purdone Weds Mrs. Rimann

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11—(AP)—J. A. Purdone, sheriff of Jackson county, and Mrs. Esther L. Rimann were married here today.

Mrs. Rimann is the widow of Wolf C. Rimann, victim of a gang-style slaying in the spring of 1949. His slaying has not been solved.

William V. Doogs Wounded In Korea

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd V. Doogs of Spring Fork, received a letter recently from their son, William V Doogs, and Saturday morning received a telegram from Major General Edward Witsell, both stating that Doogs had been slightly wounded in Korea October 29 and that he had been evacuated to a hospital and possibly will be sent later to Japan.

Doogs has been in Korea since August 1 and completed a year in the Army in October. He was wounded when his regiment, the Fifth, of the 24th Division, was 20 miles from the Manchurian border.

Foreign Policy Issues Will Be Assailed

Vandenberg May Be Pacifier to Temper GOP Fire

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—(AP)—Republican Chairman Guy Gabrielson today joined anew in the GOP "fire Acheson!" chorus and in his party's emphatic bid for a stronger voice in foreign policy.

Gabrielson, summing up the Republican advances in Tuesday's election, declared the Truman administration was repudiated in its conduct of the nation's affairs in general.

The GOP National Chairman suggested that President Truman change his "dangerous course" and drop Secretary of State Achson and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan from his cabinet.

Meanwhile it was learned that the long-ailing Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) expects to be on the job Jan. 3 when the new Congress steps in. It is expected that he may seek to temper GOP fire on foreign policy issues. Out of action for many months, Vandenberg has a record of seeking to settle differences and present a united American front to the world.

Desire Economies

As for domestic issues, another Republican, Senator Wiley of Wisconsin, fresh from a re-election victory, demanded quick congressional attention th the "grave inflationary situation."

Wiley also called for new efforts to achieve economics in the vast re-armament program.

Gabrielson's statement renewing his attack on Acheson continued a daily GOP assault begun the day after election by Harold Stassen, a Republican spokesman. It was extended by others including Senator Taft of Ohio, the party's policy chief in the Senate.

Acheson, a prime target of the Republicans throughout the campaign, said Wednesday that he has no intention at all of resigning. President Truman has always given his staunch support.

The President, who left for a Chesapeake Bay cruise on election day, has been silent ever since the vote count made it clear that compromise with the Republicans will be necessary in his conduct of foreign affairs.

An obvious question was how hard a bargain the Republicans will try to drive; whether Acheson's scalp would be part of their price at the showdown.

Gabrilson served notice of one thing in plain terms: Republicans in congress will insist upon advance consultation on foreign policy steps. He added:

"This consultation has always been denied in respect to Asia, and has been fading during the last two years with respect to Europe."

Democrats Win In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 11—(AP)—Democrat Johnson Murray was elected governor by 16,103 votes over Republican J. O. Ferguson, official state election board figures showed tonight.

Murray's margin of victory was eight votes less than when Robert S. Kerr was elected in 1942 and was the second smallest margin in state history.

Murray received 329,308 and Ferguson 313,205 in Tuesday's general election.

Rep. Mike Monroney, also a Democrat, defeated the Rev. Bill Alexander by 60,729 votes for the U. S. Senate seat.

Monroney, present fifth district congressman who won the party nomination over Sen. Elmer Thomas, received 345,953 votes to Alexander's 285,224.

Chinese Reds in Rejection for a Discussion in UN On Interventon

SEOUL, Korea, Sunday, Nov. 12—(AP)—Allied troops attacked northward from their Chongchon river bridgehead in northwest Korea Saturday, gaining four miles in the first three hours.

Red opposition ranged from slight to heavy.

The advance broke a five-day lull in ground operations.

In the period of quiet, Chinese and North Korean Communist troops had pulled back to far North Korea after delivering hard shock punches to the aliles.

Whether the Reds would stand and fight against the new allied advance or continue withdrawing was the big question both on the war front and at United Nations headquarters in Lake Success.

A resolution before the Security Council demands that Chinese Red troops be withdrawn from North Korea. It implies that if they are not, the Allies will wage all-out war against them.

(The Chinese Communist government rejected Sunday the invitation of the United Nations to discuss Chinese Red intervention in Korea. Instead, it proposed that the Reds discuss at Lake Success their own charges of American intervention in Korea and Formosa.

(The Peiping regime's proposition came in a broadcast by Peiping radio of a message from Red Foreign Minister and Premier Chou En-Lai to U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie and Security Council President Ales Bebler.

(There was no immediate reaction in Lake Success to the Red counter-proposal.)

The first Red reaction to the allied thrust was spotty.

Twenty-Fourth In Action

The U. S. 24th Division and the British Commonwealth Brigade struck four miles northward on the west end of the 100-mile Allied line across the waist of North Korea. They met almost no opposition. In three hours 24th Division patrols had reached the approaches to Pakhon.

That eight miles north of Anju, site of a vital bridge across the Chongchon river.

The U. S. First Cavalry Division, to the east, ran into what a spokesman called "very, very heavy resistance" from firmly dug-in Reds only 500 yards north of the river. Artillery and jet fighters went to the aid of the troopers.

Chinese in Strong Position

Maj. Gen. John H. Church, 24th Division commander, said he believed that Chinese were in strong defensive positions about five miles north of the most advanced 24th positions around Pakchon.

Church said he did not believe there was any need to occupy Pakchon, as the town had been "virtually levelled" by repeated air bombardment. Most Red troops there withdrew several days ago, he said.

The general said his study of Chinese Communist troops in Korea indicates, "they are "fighting without any animosity.

"They just obey commands and try to do what they are ordered."

He said he had no reports that Chinese Reds had mistreated American prisoners. In fact, he added, he heard that they gave captured Americans water, food and as much medical care as they could.

Church said Chinese troops fight stubbornly, even under heavy artillery fire. They man their main defense positions themselves, he said, and use North Koreans only for flank protection.

Allied warplanes continued their daily blows against Chinese Communist border crossing points on the Korean side of the Yalu river.

'Floradora' Stage Hit 50 Years Ago Began a Legend

By Cynthia Lowry
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—On the evening of Monday, Nov. 12, 1900, the curtain on New York's Casino theater rose on a musical show called "Florodora," imported from London.

President William McKinley had just been re-elected. The Victorian era was drawing to a close. It was a day of red plush, ornate guilt furniture, of feather boas, modified bustles and plumed hats. On Broadway Sarah Bernhardt was playing "L'Aiglon" in French, while nearby Maude Adams was an English-language dauphin.

Critics, in a miracle of unanimity, called "Florodora" a terrible show, conceding however, that some of its tunes were catchy and that its girls were handsome.

But "Florodora"—the name of an imaginary Philippine island—launched the musical comedy in America. Always before musical shows had been operettas. It also produced the famous Florodora sextette.

Today few remember much about the show, but the legend of the Florodora girls and the Florodora sextette tune, "Tell Me, Pretty Maiden," has endured through each succeeding generation.

Actually, the success of "Floradora" was sealed by a group of Yale students. They had seen the show Nov. 10 when it played the Hyperion in New Haven. Soon after the show opened in New York, they raided the Casino, broke into the sextette act and stopped the performance. Critics or no critics, people began coming to see what all the fuss was about.

A quarter of a century ago, an industrious theatrical researcher culled records and old programs and announced that a total of 79 girls were in the sextette during its original run of 547 performances. No one ever has been able to estimate the size of the legion claiming to have been among the six girls and six boys of the original cast, but it must run into the hundreds.

On the opening night of "Florodora" the girls promenaded across the stage in floor length dresses and plumed hats, neither singing or dancing, on the arms of young men attired in gray frock suits and high hats.

The original program, a copy of which exists in the archives of the museum of the City of New York, listed them as Margaret Walker, Vaughn Texsmith, Marjorie Relyea, Agnes Wayburn, Marie Wilson, Daisy Green, and George de Long, Lewis Hooper, Edward Gore, Joseph Welsh, Thomas A. Kiernan and Joseph S. Colt.

No others can be considered to be in the "original" sextette, although changes began to be made with astounding rapidity.

The Florodora girls almost immediately became theater legend. Their experiences, in the spotlight during and after performances, showed a perennial impression that a show girl's job practically assured her of a gay social life where marriage-minded millionaires were as thick as apples on a tree.

Actually the six girls scored a sensational record:

Margaret Walker married a wealthy Atlantic City, N.J., man and presumably lived happily and luxuriously ever after.

Vaughn Texsmith, born Miss Smith of Texas, married a Paterson, N.J., silk millionaire — and left the theater forever.

Marjorie Relyea married a rich New York City stockbroker.

Her first husband, a nephew of Andrew Carnegie, died suddenly in a New York hotel four days before "Florodora" opened.

Agnes Wayburn, in 1900 the divorced wife of Ned Wayburn, married a South African diamond merchant and moved to Johannesburg.

Daisy Green was promoted out of the sextette into a speaking role, became a London prima donna, came back to New York and married a rich Denver stockbroker.

Marie Wilson received a market tip from James R. Keene, ran up a fortune of $750,000 and then married Frederick Gebhard of the social register, who with his friend Stanford White had leased a pair of seats to "Florodora." From then on she divided her time between her estate in Virginia and townhouse in Washington, D.C.

The record beyond that is dim. Some of the ladies of the sextette are long dead.

Considerably less is known about the men of the sextette.

Edward Gore, son of the great actress May Robson, quit the theater after being in the sextette and ultimately became a successful New York investment broker.

Lewis Hooper married a California heiress but continued in the theater.

Thomas Kiernan brought his brother into the act and later played with him in vaudeville.

Joseph Welsh changed his name to Dick to avoid confusion with another actor and had a successful stage career.

George de Long retired after marrying a rich woman. His murder by highwaymen while traveling in Albania in 1924 almost caused an international incident.

Joseph S. Colt just slipped from view.

Some of the sextette replacements didn't fare badly, either. Camille Clifford married Henry Lyndhurst Bruce, son of Lord Aberdare. Frances Belmont became Lady Ashburton, mistress of some 60,000 acres in England and Wales.

Nan Patterson and Evelyn Nesbit met tragedy. Nan Patterson was tried twice—both times the jury disagreed—for the shooting of her lover, Frank Thomas ("Caesar") Young, a bookmaker, in a Hansom cab on his way to a ship to join his estranged wife abroad. After her release she headed a road show which promptly went broke and she disappeared.

Evelyn Nesbit met Stanford White through "Florodora" and later married Harry K. Thaw

SUNDAY'S SINGING SAILORS — Members of Vienna Boys' Choir wear sailor suits during practice session in London's Westminster Cathedral. The Austrian choir, visiting London for first time since 1938, is touring the country.

Miss Nesbit was in the show's chorus, not the sextette, because she was too short.

Requirements for a Florodora girl were red or brunette hair; 130 pounds and five feet, four inches. It was the beginning of the trend toward the tall show girl hired to grace a show by her presence, not for ability to sing or dance.

Through the years and numerous revivals many to-be-great names graced "Florodora" casts: Nancy Carroll, Gypsy Rose Lee, Martha Sleeper, Marion Davies. The Shuberts did one in the 1920s and had a children's sextette with Milton Berle and Ben Grauer among the sextette boys.

Full-Size inspection plates

Easy-to-remove, one-piece inspection plate saves time and labor . . . provides full view of rear axle gears when removed.

Music Modes

Jazz at the Philharmoinc featuring such stellar artists as Coleman Hawkins, Illinois Jacquet, Flip Phillips, Buddy Rich, Bill Harris, Oscar Peterson, Harry Eidson and the first lady of song, Ella Fitzgerald, will invade the Main arena of the Kansas City Municipal auditorium, Sunday, November 19.

The bash will be a combination dance and jazz concert.

From the interest that has mounted in Sedalia, concerning these musicians and the troupe promoted by Norman Granz, there should be a fair representation from the Sedalia area in attendance.

The members of the crew are all stars on their respective instruments. Hawk, Jacquet and Phillips are three of the nation's leading exponents of the tenor sax and their contrasting styles and interpretations revolve around a semi-bop-modern pattern. Bill Harris, of Woody Herman's recently folded herd has in the past years copped first honors on all of the major popularity polls. Harry Edison, trumpeteer, formerly of the Count Basie aggregation, is an artist with screamer (high) trumpet work.

Of course the name Buddy Rich speaks for itself. The rhythms of the drummer-boy set the pace for many of the finest jazz instrumentals and carry the steady beat of slower ballads. Ella (somewhere there's music, how high the moon?) Fitzgerald will be on hand and on piano. Granz has a new discovery, Oscar Peterson, of Montreal, Canada. Peterson's piano style matches and resembles those of Art Tatum, George Shearing and Lennie Tristano.

It's going to be a big session and we will be right up against the stand from the first chord to the last flatted fifth.

It's out . . . the latest Stan Kenton creation . . . "Stan Kenton Presents." Stan is on top with the new Capitol album of "Onward and Upward" modern jazz. The six sides are, for any standpoint, out of this world. The favorite of this department is side two, featuring the stratospheric trumpet of Maynard Ferguson. The side is very original and winds up into a flashy bop instrumental. Art Pepper with alto in hand, blows a nice dreamy side and percussionist, Shelly Mann, stands out on "Halls of Brass."

The album is not and probably will not be in this locale for some time. Mebbe by New Years . . . mebbe . . .

Tonight we will journey to Kansas City to hear the great Lionel Hampton, King of the Vibes. It is regretful, but the review on the new Hamp crew will have to lay over a week until next Sunday. . . .

Festival Visitors to Signal Moon

LONDON—(AP)—Visitors to the 1951 Festival of Britain in London will press a button, then watch a radio pulse as it flashes out into space and comes bouncing back off the moon.

The high frequency signal will be sent from a giant revolving saucer erected on top of a tower on the south bank of the River Thames. Visitors in the "Dome of Discovery" will be able to follow the progress of the signal as it makes an image on a large cathode ray tube resembling a television screen. Two and a half seconds after pressing the button, the echo will be recorded after its 477,720-mile journey through space.

Attractive Donna Lee Hickey Isn't Yet Any Body's Wife

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—Donna Lee Hickey is a beautiful young thing with a figure like a Freudian dream and a face as fresh as a field of clover after a rain.

She is all this and more, she is not anybody's wife, and that's her problem.

"I want to get married," she says. "I've won beauty contests. I have a good job dancing at the Copacabana (New York night club). I've got movie offers and television offers, but none of them include marriage."

Donna, who at various times has been voted Miss Press photographer, Miss American Legion, Miss Miami Beach, Miss Fire Fighter and Miss See is 21, brunette, hazel-eyed. She weighs 112. She stands five feet, six. She measures 22 inches around the waist and 35 inches up there.

She wants a man between 30 and 38. He can earn $50 to $500 a week; it doesn't matter, she says. But he must be ambitious, honest, sincere and considerate.

"Is that asking too much?" Donna asks. "It seems it is. Sure, I've had dates. In the last year, I've had four marriage proposals. But always there was something wrong."

All four offers came from singers.

The first was too lazy. The second too jealous. (He was in pain every time I smiled at the customers.) The third drank too much. The fourth was not dependable.

Why all the singers? It just happened that way, Donna says. But the husband she chooses doesn't have to be a singer, she says. If he's in show business, that will help. She wants to continue her carer for awhile after marriage.

"Twice I came close to getting married," Donna recalls. "But both times the guy became bossy. He began to object to my job. He complained about my clothes. Said they were too sophisticated, too daring.

"That's the irony, they like the clothes when they first see you, maybe that's what attracts them in the first place. But they get crotchety when they begin to think they own you. Just hint you might marry them, and they think they own you.

"I want to be an equal partner, not part of the stock."

For Power with Economy...it's High Compression!

FOR HIGH COMPRESSION... IT'S THE "ROCKET"!

"88"

Ever since Oldsmobile introduced the "Rocket" Engine two years ago, seems like everybody claims "high-compression"—but nobody explains it. The phrase simply means squeezing the gasoline into a smaller space before exploding it. This gets more power out of the same amount of fuel. But the engine must be designed for high-compression all the way through to assure smooth, quiet, gas-saving performance. The "Rocket" is 100% high-compression—from the crankshaft out. And the lowest-priced "Rocket" Engine car is Oldsmobile's "88." Makes good sense to try it soon—doesn't it?

(For Hal Boyle)

WITH U. S. FORCES IN NORTH KOREA — (AP) — A tired, thin Georgia boy stumbled into an American patrol a few days ago after six days in Red-held North Korea.

He told in softly accented words of Korea's winter—the new enemy of United Nations troops.

Pfc. Max Brannon, Moultrie, Ga., was separated from his unit when it was ambushed by Communists in the Tokchon area about 20 miles east of Kunmo on the Chongchon river line.

For six days he roamed the hills—at times within five yards of Korean Reds who were hunting him.

One night his trousers legs and sox froze. For three days he satisfied his thirst by munching ice from frozen puddles.

That is the beginning of the rigorous Korean winter in terms of suffering for one American soldier.

Multiply Max Brannon's experience by several hundred thousand. And throw in the cold weather problems of aircraft, trucks, jeeps and all the other things that keep a modern army on the move.

For United Nations ground forces collectively this is what the approach of winter holds:

The ice is appearing generally along the northwest front now as the temperature drops daily below freezing.

The north wind from the far Gobi and the Manchurian plains is beginning to whine down through the North Korean mountain passes and drill its cold way across the brief plains.

Hills Drab Brown

The hills which a few days ago were splashed with autumn's vivid colors are turning drab brown. Leaves from maples and poplars are falling like thin sheets of leather.

The approaching winter is hardening the rice paddies and making them firm for tanks and heavy vehicles.

But it also confronts the army—already perplexed by supply problems in this remote land—with need for such practical items as anti-freeze solution for radiators and lighter weight oil and grease for the thousands of engines necessary for movement and attack.

Not many officers here reckoned on a winter campaign in Korea.

The capture of Seoul, followed by relatively easy seizure of the Red capital, Pyongyang, and the rapid thrust toward the Manchurian border, convinced many the war would be over before Thanksgiving.

Now, with arrival of Chinese Communists on the battlefront, a winter campaign becomes a possibility.

The Chinese brought another problem with them—their language.

There seemed to be no Chinese linguists in two divisions — the U. S. Second and 24th—which this correspondent visited recently.

Both had captured Chinese prisoners and interrogating them was a trying task. U. S. Army Nisei (Japanese-Americans) who were invaluable in talking with North Korean prisoners—most of whom understand Japanese—were as helpless with the Chinese as the Americans.

Some Chinese-speaking South Koreans were pressed into service as interpreters, but questions and answers had to filter through a South Korean. Official interrogators were not happy with this procedure.

Students Are In Central Band

Three Central college students from Sedalia are members of Central's marching band which will participate in the parade, and half time act at the William Jewell-Central football game on Homecoming day, Saturday, November 18. They are:

Miss Patricia Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Edwards 821 West Tenth street; William Matthews, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Matthews, 1912 South Engineer; and Gene Bockleman, son of Mrs. Tropha Bockleman, 230 South Quincy avenue.

The band, which is directed by Prof. Keith K. Anderson, will appear in the parade at 10 a. m. Game time is at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Miss Edwards, a sophomore, plays a B-flat clarinet; Matthews, a freshman, plays an alto saxaphone; and Bockleman, a freshman, plays the drums.

My Sincere Thanks...

No One Seems Absolutely Positive To What Lincoln Said

CHICAGO, Nov. 11—(AP)—Four score and seven years ago Abraham Lincoln spoke his immortal words at Gettysburg and today no one is positive exactly what he said there.

The observance of the 87th anniversary of the dedication of the Gettysburg battlefield cemetery in 1863, the Chicago Historical Society has brought together for the first time the five extant copies of the Gettysburg address in Lincoln's own handwriting.

Special ceremonies will be held Nov. 19, the day on which the addres will be "four score and seven years" old. Governor Stevenson of Illinois and Chicago's Mayor Kennelly will be guests of honor.

The director of the society, Paul Angle, noted Lincoln author, estimates the value of the five documents at $350,000 to $500,000. They will be guarded at all times by private detectives and by honor guards of the armed services, Chicago and state police. Special donations have been made to cover the expenses of the exhibit.

Angle said one purpose of the exhibit is to show the public that Lincoln did not deliver this speech spontaneously with little preparation as is commonly believed.

In fact, Angle said, it shows that Lincoln spent considerable time beforehand planning what he was going to say and even in copies written after the event made further changes which improved the literary quality. He said the development of the addres shows the care the president took in his composition.

Angle said that no one is quite sure of the exact words Lincoln used at the dedication. The newspaper accounts are mostly inaccurate and varying and not many papers printed thte text at all.

In fact, many papers ignored the speech. A Harrisburg, Pa., paper called it "silly," and the Illinois State Register of Springfield, Lincoln's home town, called the assertion that the new nation had been conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men were created equal "a political falsehood."

Angle said most people believe that Lincoln scribbled the address on a scrap of paper on the train from Washington to Gettysburg. This is completely wrong, Angle says, and just "a pretty story." Lincoln's remarks were written out carefully several days before he left Washington. A second draft was written at the house of David Wills in Gettysburg on the morning of the dedication. This is the paper Lincoln held in his hand when he spoke.

Copy To Secretary

The first copy Lincoln gave to his secretary, John Hay, whose children presented it to the library of congress in 1916. It is written on one side of two sheets of paper. Lincoln was either interrupted in writing it or his pen went dry because most of the concluding sentence is written in pencil:

The second draft, written at Gettysburg, was also presented to the Library of Congress by the Hay family. It is written in ink on both sides of the paper.

In January, 1864, Edward Everett, the principal speaker at Gettysburg, wrote Lincoln for a copy to be sold along with the manuscript of his oration at the New York Sanitary Fair for the benefit of widows and orphans of Union soldiers. The third copy passed through several hands was purchased for $60,000 by the school children of Illinois aided by Marshall Field. It is now in the Illinois State Historical Society at Springfield.

Lincoln wrote the fourth copy for another fair, held in Baltimore in 1864, at the request of diplomat and historian George Bancroft. Bancroft planned to reproduce the addres in a publication. For this purpose a heading and signature were needed and Bancroft asked Lincoln for another copy. Lincoln permitted him to keep the fourth copy which is now the property of Cornell University.

The fifth and last copy is written on three sheets of paper and bears the full signature, "Abraham Lincoln." This copy was bought at auction in April 1949 by Oscar Cintas of Havana, Cuba, former Cuban ambasador to the U. S. for $53,000.

Angle said the majority of the differences in the five copies are in punctuation, paragraphing, spelling and in changes in small words. However, there are some important variations. The familiar words "under God" in the last sentence were not in the first and second copies, but were inserted in the third. Also, where the second and succeeding copies say, "it is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this," the original draft says "this we may in all propriety do."

Angle says these revisions, along with occasional crossed out and changed words, are further evidence of the care Lincoln took with the address that is a treasured part of the American heritage.

Husband Takes The Kitchen And Wife Runs Business

By Rhea Cumming

ATLANTA, Nov. 11 —(AP)— So you want to change jobs with your husband?

It's an age-old threat, often cried, but seldom tried. It usually ends with the missus at home washing dishes and hubby still at the office.

It really happened, however, to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keheley of Newman, Georgia. What happened to them should give an idea of the probable outcome.

Although the job exchange didn't come about by a family quarrel, but by doctor's orders, the switch has been successful for them—with a few exceptions, the chief ones being that he wants his job back and she wants hers. But the doc says they'll have to wait a few years.

It happened this way:

A year and a half ago Paul Keheley, who operated a successful florist shop and seven greenhouses, was told by his doctor that the jobs were too much for him.

Paul had suffered from hypertension most of his life; his blood pressure had caused an enlarged heart and the blood vessels of his eyes to hemorrhage so that he was almost blind.

The doctor, Walter Kempner of Duke University hospital, put Paul on his famous but rigid rice diet—almost so strict that Paul can't lick a postage stamp because of the salt in the glue.

Brags on Bouquets

At that time Paul's only knowledge of culinary art was strictly from hunger, and the only experience Ruth had had in the nursery business was rearing their two children. Still, they exchanged jobs, for the lack of a better solution.

This is the way it turned out:

With Ruth in charge of the greenhouses and florist shop, business is booming. Her husband brags about the wedding bouquets she makes and the way she collects the bills.

Paul's health has improved so rapidly the doctor already has used photographs of him in lectures. Ruth says her nerves were never better. She slept right through a dynamite explosion near their home.

Other results?

Ruth's shoe size has jumped from an 8½ to a 9. Sometimes she works 24 or 36 hours without a break. She has gained 18 pounds.

She hasn't forced Paul to keep house on a budget as he did her, so his grocery bills are higher than hers. But the family is eating better because of his extravagance.

Ruth's friends now call Paul for recipes, but he can't eat most of his own cooking (he gets a one-ounce steak a week). He's also trying to outbake his mother-in-law with his homemade breads.

Because the husband still signs the checks Ruth occasionally lends him a hand around the house—cleaning out closets when no one can get into them any longer, keeping up the children's clothes and, once in awhile, sewing, ironing, washing, sweeping, dusting, cleaning, scrubbing or attending to other domestic tasks.

Has Tuner-Out On Commercials

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 —(AP)— Somebody was bound to do it in this age of atomic energy and jet propulsion, and Dr. R. Clark Jones says he has turned the trick—he has invented a radio—de-commercializer."

The Cambridge, Mass., mathematical physicist has demonstrated a four-tube gadget to attach to your radio that automatically tunes out the commercial announcements.

The device abhors chatter, and whenever somebody starts talking on the radio, it cuts down the volume until the talk has ceased.

Dr, Jones, of the Polaroid Corp. of Cambridge, explains in somewhat more scientific terms that the machine taks advantage of the fundamental difference between music and speech. Speech is full of extremely short silences or pauses—like the unnoticed but perceptible pause between the "S" and the "T" in the word "stay." These pauses occur much more frequently in speech than in music, and are more abrupt. In effect, the device listens for the pauses and then makes its decisions. Other devices have been developed to accomplish the same purpose but have used different principles.

The polaroid firm says it hasn't been decided whether the 'de-commercializer" will be manufactured for sale to the public, but if so, it would raise some interesting problems.

For instance, if you had a de-commercializer on your set and your name should be called on a give-way program you just wouldn't hear it. Your programs would become musical guessing games, for although you could hear a tune as it was played, you wouldn't be able to hear the announcer ahead of time telling you what was coming up.

Off would go a comedian, no matter how funny his jokes. And you wouldn't hear any news, or even disaster warnings.

Then there's the little matter of conscience—whether it would be quite cricket to accept for free the entertainment on which the sponsor has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars, and then refuse to listen to his sales talk.

However, Dr. Jones says the device would be no threat whatever to radio advertising on radio business in general. Anyone who would pay $15 or $20 for the gadget would do so only if he disliked radio commercials so strongly that he scarcely could be considered a profitable part of the radio audience.

In 1421, approximately 100,000 lives were lost when huge sea waves burst the dikes protecting the Netherlands and destroyed 72 villages.

"Old Faithful," Yellowstone Park's celebrated geyser, spouts at nearly regular intervals of about an hour.

California

Mrs. Harold Priess

"Moniteau County for Christ" was the theme of the fourth annual convention of the county council of churches held at the California Methodist church. The Rev. Morris Pullin, director of education for the Disciples for Christ in Missouri, and the Rev. Ben Smidtke, pastor of the First Methodist church in Jefferson City, were the principal speakers. Group conferences were conducted by Miss Martha Miller, state council officer, the Rev. Kenneth Johnston, pastor of the California Methodist church, and Miss Eva Cavers of the Presbyterian church. Officers elected at the meeting are: The Rev. M. L. Jeffers, pastor of the California Christian church, president; Marvin Fisher, first vice-president; W. G. Heidbreder, second vice-president; Mrs. E. A. Kibbe, secretary, and the Rev. Louis Drake, pastor of the California Presbyterian church, treasurer. Divisional chairmen are: Miss Winona Meyer, children; the Rev. Don Jacobs, pastor of the Jamestown Methodist church, youth; G. C. McCollester, adult; Miss Eva Cavers, council of women; the Rev. Johnston, leadership education; the Rev. Drake, social action, and the Rev. Johnston, public relations.

The regular meeting of the California P.T.A. was held in the study hall last Thursday night. James Jackson offered the prayer. At the business meeting, presided over by Mrs. H. E. Priess, president, it was voted to hold the November meeting on November 30 and the December meeting December 18. The November program will be conducted by Mrs. R. L. Hert, the Parent Education chairman, and in December the group will attend the annual musical program conducted by Melvin Peterman. Mrs. Eugene Kilgore is serving as chairman of the rag drive and asked that all rags be brought to her home during November. A playlet explaining Amendment No. 1 was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Fern Shipps and Mrs. Kilgore.

The Mersey Lucas Wood chapter of the Daughters of American Colonists met at the home of Mrs. Joseph Edwards, Forest Hill, in Jefferson City, Saturday afternoon. The program was centered around historical events in October. Mrs. Marvin Crawford also talked on her recent trip to Florida. Others besides Mrs. Crawford attending from California were Mrs. E. G. Hull, Mrs. J. R Proctor, Miss Irene Craig and Miss Sallie Wood.

Mrs. R. E. Baldwin was hostess at a pre-nuptial shower honoring her sister-in-law, Miss Edwina Baldwin, who will become the bride of Melvin Peterman in December. The guests presented Miss Baldwin with a rose point crystal centerpiece with crystal bird flower holder. The hostess served a dessert course. Those attending were Mrs. V. F. Carpenter and daughter, Vera, of Jefferson City, Mrs. Clark Craghead, Mrs. G. L. Howard, Mrs. William Robert Allen, Mrs. R. L. Hert, Mrs. Raymond Lawson, Miss Mary Hert, Mrs. A. K. Reed, Mrs. Mabel Gainer, Mrs. M. F. York, Mrs. M. L. Jeffers, Mrs. G. C. McCollester, Mrs. Emil Rombach and Mrs. B. F. Houser.

Mrs. William B. Todd, Mrs. C. Edgar Ritchie, Mrs. Earl Simpson and Mrs. Robert Hogge were cohostesses at a pre-nuptial shower and tea at the home of Mrs. Todd, last Saturday afternoon, honoring Miss Geraldine Joe Oesterly who will become the bride of Marion Russell Popejoy on Thanksgiving day. Mrs. F. E. Oesterly and Mrs. J. R. Popejoy poured for fifty-four guests at a table appointed with five branch crystal candelabra and a centerpiece of bronze chrysanthemums. Yellow rases decorated the table where the shower gifts were arranged.

Mrs. A. L. Gates, district deputy grand matron of the 31st district, Order of the Eastern Star, was honored at a party Monday night at the Masonic hall. Representatives from most of the eleven chapters in the district attended. Special ceremonies were presented by the officers in Mrs. Gates honor. The Past Matrons club presented the honoree with a corsage. She also received a large bouquet of chrysanthemums and a gift from the chapter. A trio composed of Mary Ann Hagemeyer, Shirley Bower and Gwendolyn Lee sang. Following the ceremonies Mrs. E. A. McCollester, worthy matron and Mrs. A. E. Wilson presided at a tea table.

Mrs. J. B. Dritt, who suffered a fractured hip in a fall in her home October 10, is reported to be improving nicely at Barnes hospital. Her daughter, Marie, of the home, is in St. Louis with her.

POLITICO IN DEFEAT?—With the election still fresh in mind, you might get the impression, in viewing this statue by Wilhelm Lembrueck, that here is a losing candidate just sensing the trend as election returns pour in. Actually the piece, titled "Der Gestuerzte" ("The Fallen"), is one of an exhibition of works of European sculptors on display in Munich, Germany.

Students Worry Thailand

BANGKOK—(AP)—Jolted by reports that 200 Thai "students" in England are not going to school but are living the life of "society butterflies," the Thailand government has ordered a committee representing four ministries to investigate. The reports were brought from England by a Thai judge who recently visited London.

Finance Ministry officials said students in England received an annual allowance of $1,540 each. About 350 students in the United States were allowed a proportionate amount. But the officials said merchants and other wealthy people had applied for sterling and dollar exchange on the pretext of sending children for study in England and America. Instead the children had made tourist trips.

In other cases after the Finance Ministry had made the allowances the students remained in Thailand. Regulations were later tightened to check these abuses.

Gigantic Plan In Financing By A. T. and T.

president, said that depending on the demand for telephone service and the amount of new money received from the conversion of convirtible debentures now outstanding, "it is expected that further financing will be required during the first six months of 1951."

It is clear," he said, "that as new capital becomes needed, it should come for the most part from the further issuance of stock, either through debenture conversions or otherwise."

The A. T. and T. does the great bulk of financing for the entire Bell System, although subsidiary companies occasionally borrow on their own account. A. T. and T. usually raises money in two ways: 1. Through sale of convertible debentures that upon payment of an additional premium can be changed into common stock; 2. Issuance of straight debentures that are not convertible into common stock. It also sells new stock to employes who currently are buying 2,800,000 shares.

A. T. and T. then advances money to subsidiary companies, most of which it owns 99 or 100 per cent. The subsidiary companies either repay the money or issue a corresponding amount of their own stock to A. T. and T., subsequently paying dividends on the stock to the parent company. Those dividends become part of A. T. and T. earnings from which the company then pays dividends—$9 a share annually—to its own stoskholders.

Taylor and Hilton Not Having a Rift

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Nov. 11—(AP)—Elizabeth Taylor and Nicky Hilton — through the customary Hollywood middleman — tonight denied another reoprt they were rifting.

The actress is winding up a five-day vacation at this desert spot and her young husband is flying in from Las Vegas to join her and bring her home probably tomorrow, Miss Taylor's studio representative, Ed Harbert, said.

Harbert said Miss Taylor had been ordered to get a good rest before starting another film; so she and her stand-in, Marjorie Dillon, went to Palm Springs last Tuesday. Meanwhile, Hilton and his brother, Barron Hilton, flew to Las Vegas last night to celebrate the birth of a baby to Barron's wife.

The studio agent said Hilton planned all along to rejoin Miss Taylor.

Rep. Kingsland Asks Investigation

MINEOLA, N. Y., Uov. 11—(AP)—Republican Rep. W. Kingsland Macy, recipient of the famed "Hanley letter," said tonight he had asked a Congressional committee to investigate his apparent close defeat for reelection.

He said further in a lengthy statement that he was unable to dismiss recurring rumors that Nassau county Republican leaders did not unduly exert themselves to help his candidacy.

His statement made no mention of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, with whom he has been at odds.

Macy said he had directed his appeal to the "special committee to investigate campaign expenditures for the House of Representatives (1950)."

He already had sought a court order to impound ballot boxes.

A canvass of ballots in Long Island's Nauuau and Suffolk counties gave Ernest Greenwood, his Democrat-Liberal opponent, a margin of 126 votes out of more than 152,000 cast.

Purchases Lee Food Division

CHICAGO, Nov. 11—(AP)—Consolidated Grocers Corporation has acquired the food division of the H. D. Lee Company, Inc., of Kansas City, Missouri, it was announced today.

Announcement of the purchase was made by Nathan Cummings, chairman of Consolidated Grocers, and R. B. Caywood, president of H. D. Lee.

In addition to its food divisions, the Lee company is the nation's largest manufacturer of union-made men's work clothes and overalls, selling its entire output under the Lee brand label. It will continue in this business, as only the food division has been sold.

Consolidated Grocers is the leading canner, processor and distributor of food products in this country.

The food division of H. D. Lee serves a group of more than 600 individually owned retail food stores in the mid-west and southwest. Plans will be made to expand its operations further, Cumming said. It will now be known as the Lee Foods Division of Consolidated Grocers.

Lee Foods Division will continue "for the time being" to occupy its present quarters in Kansas City, Cummings said. Plans are being formulated for the construction of a new warehouse in Kansas City.

Caywood said the H. D. Lee Company was considering plans for further expansion of its garment business. Current volume is the largest in history and demand continues to outstrip supply, he added.

Caywood will join the board of Directors of Consolidated Grocers. Guy T. McCartney, general manager of H. D. Lee, will serve as president of the Lee Foods Division. C. R. Boyle will be vice-president. Other officers will be named later.

Destiture Ex-Wife of Millionaire Suicide

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Nov. 11—(AP)—The destitute ex-wife of a mililonaire meat packer was found dead today in her auto—a suicide—as the car radio blared "I'm the Lonesomest Girl in Town."

Mrs. Iva Gilbertson Foster, 59, former wife of John Morrell Foster of the Sioux Falls, S. Dak., Morrell packing family, was found slumped over the wheel of the car. The motor was running and police said a vacuum cleaner hose led into the car from the exhaust pipe. Ther were no notes and police listed it a suicide by carbon monoxide poisoning.

Max Damon, her attorney, said he had last seen Mrs. Foster six months ago when she told him she was broke and very worried over her finances.

She was divorced March 3, 1933, from Foster and a sensational child custody fight over their only child, Whitney, now 23, followed in the courts.

She received a property settlement of $330,000 from Foster at the time of the divorce, but Damon said most of that went for the lengthy court battles.

The case was fought through the courts of California and South Dakota and to the U. S. Supreme Court. The action was climaxed in a dramatic legal move in 1937 when the father's attorneys took the boy out of his mother's Beverly Hills mansion and retuned him to South Dakota.

The move thus took the child out of jurisdiction of the California courts. But subsequently Superior Court here awarded the father legal custody of the boy. The California Supreme Court and the U. S. Supreme Court upheld the Superior Court's finding.

She recently had been living in a motel in nearby Santa Monica.

However as many as the runs have been, the losses have been small due to the fact the majority of runs were grass fires.

Doc Jones' Horse

Remember when Doc Jones drove a horse and buggy? Why, the horse was as well-known as Doc himself. Smart, too—she could find her way home in case Doc fell asleep at the reins—something his streamlined car can't do. As for speed, she beat the stork many a time. Whether folks realize it or not, they owe a lot to Doc Jones' old horse. Remember?

The best answer busy women can make as to why they give time to Girl Scouting is to quote the purpose of Girl Scouting as stated in it's constitution, namely, "To help girls realize the ideals of womanhood as preparation for their responsibilities in the home and as active citizens in the community and the world." If you would like to help in this worth while program call Mrs. Cline Cain. There is a need and a place for you.

A meeting of the nominating and steering committee will be held in the Girl Scout office Friday at 2:00 o'clock.

Program training has been planned for all leaders Wednesday at 1:30, in the office.

The Junior Planning Borad, consiting of one Scout from each Intermediate and Senior troop, will meet in the Girl Scout office Thursday at 2:00 o'clock. It is the responsibility of each leader to see that her representative is present.

Have you tried the "Secret Pal" system? One troop finds it to be fun and provides party food about as often as is practical.

The Girl Scout Leader' club met Tuesday at the Elk's home with Mrs. Elmo Harlan presiding. The large number of leaders present heard interesting reports from Mrs. Eugene Helman and Mrs. A. C. Freeberg, concerning the recent conference in Denver.

The Girl Scout Council held it's regular monthly meeting at the office Thursday. Reports were made by council chairmen. Mrs. Cain, organization chairman, needs help at all the schools, particularly Washington. Mrs. Helman told the council of the plans of Mrs. Peggy Hewitt to produce a pageant using all the Girl Scouts in Sedalia. When the last week in January was agreed upon every member of the council promised to help.

As new ways of meeting old problems must be met we can all hepl each other by the exchange of ideas and experiences. No one person know all the answers, but we can help the other fellow if we try.

Red Cross Corner

The Pettis County Chapter was deeply grieved by the passing of Mr. J. W. Reid, who has served as treasurer of the Chapter for many years.

It's an old saying that once in Red Cross always in Red Cross. Whether you're a volunteer or a professional, the work gets in the blood and stays there. This fact is borne out by the return of Russell Peck, who, in the capacity of State Liaison Representative, will serve Southern Iowa. Mr. Peck, who might also be referred to as Major Peck, since he is a veteran of World War II, and a member of the permanent Reserves, has already entered upon his new duties. The best wishes of the Chapter go with him.

We have inaugurated a new service in the Red Cross office here, with the first issue of a Bulletin, stating and elaborating on the current activities in the Chapter. This Bulletin is being mailed to the members of the County Liaison Committee, to keep them posted on what is being done and what is being planned in Red Cross.

In the near future the Democrat will publish a picture of a scene which took place last June at the Junior Red Cross conference in Arkansas. Prominent in this picture is our Junior Red Red Cross representative, Ruthann Zulauf. Ruthann made a splendid impression as our delegate and we have good reason to believe that her activities will soon be area wide. Information has just been sent out to all the schools in the county anent the fact that there will be a Junior Red Cross exhibit in Exhibition Hall, at the Missouri State Teachers convention November 16-17. A Junior Red Cross consultant for Missouri will be present.

Recently, a three hour training course for First Aid instructors was held in the Red Cross office, with Ernest Vornbrock, Field Consultant for Safety Services in Missouri, as Instructor. Three of our Instructors were re-authorized: Cecil H. Smith, Mrs. Victor McFadden and Mrs. George West. These instructors will direct classes, sessions of which will begin in the near future. For obvious reasons of National safety, it is imperative that one out of every four persons be trained, and well trained in First Aid.

Mr. Arthur Hoffman, chairman of Staff Aides, informs us that 1000 News Sheets have been prepared for mailing in the Red Cross office and will go out this week. Mrs. E. B. McNeill, Mrs. Frank Schouten and Mrs. Opal Goering assisted in this work.

After additional training in the Gray Lady Service, our volunteers have been on duty at Bothwell Hospital. The schedule for November indicates the County is well represented, as we now have two Gray Ladies from Dresden, two from La Monte, one from Houstonia, one from Hughesville and one from Green Ridge. These are in addition to the members in Sedalia proper.

It was Santa Claus time in the Red Cross office last Thursday, when volunteers packed and wrapped 15 gift boxes for the men on the high seas. These boxes, each of which contains 6 individual gifts, were wrapped in gay holiday gift wrappings. Each package contained stationery, pencil, tooth brush, puzzle book, playing cards and chewing gum. Through the courtesy of the Missouri Public Service Company, these gifts are being displayed in their window, 400 South Ohio.

So—be game when you serve that duck dinner and use one of his real duck decoys for the table decoration. Nestle it in some straw with some cattails for a background. Use a brown or yellow and brown plaid cloth with yellow napkins and yellow or orange pottery plates. A Jack Frosterized maple leaf with a mound of candy corn on it placed above each place setting is colorful. Now all you have to do is cook that duck dinner (don't forget the wild rice) and use his duck call to say it is ready!! Quack! Quack!

Style Guide for today's woman

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

CHRISTMAS is just six weeks from tomorrow and because of our un-seasonal weather it is hard for us to believe it is so near. A large percentage of us like to give wearing apparel as gifts, therefore sizes and favorite colors are important to eliminate future exchanges—so you must start in rather early to acquire this information. Early shopping of course, at any time is always important, but this season particularly it is wise to make early selections.

The array of items being offered now are exciting, well-made and the prices will not be less later. You'll find new materials offered in robes, prettier lingerie than usual, new colors in sweaters, and a gala array of colors and designs offered in scarfs.

Shop as early as possible, have your gifts wrapped early, and you'll have more time to really enjoy the festivities of the holiday.

cried Dad, "not another item on that Christmas list, until you've arranged to give me portraits of you and the children."

"LOOK"

replied Mother, "why not practice what you preach? We'd like to see your portrait on the Christmas tree, too."

"LISTEN"

warned Santa, "neither of you will get your wish, if you don't make your appointments soon. It takes time, you know, to create fine and lasting portraits—and it's later than you think."

The fitted bodice which came to a point was fastened down the front with tiny satin covered buttons. The long sleeves tapering to a point over the wrists, and the full, gathered skirt lengthened into an aisle-wide train. The veil of bridal illusion was held in place by a half-hat of white satin covered with lace. The bride's only ornament was a triple strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds, stephanotis and greenery tied with white satin moline streamers.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov.—(AP)—University of Missouri's Tigers combined air and ground might today to nose out the University of Colorado, 21 to 19, in a nerve-tingling Big Seven conference football game before 22,000 shivering fans.

The Missourians starated by overcoming an early Colorado touchdown with two quick ones of its own in the first quarter but they failed to maintain their drive and Colorado's Buffaloes were nipping their heels at half time. Then in the third period the Buffaloes swept ahead but not for long.

Klein Counts Clincher

Missouri quickly took command in the fourth period with an air attack which put the Tigers within scoring distance and Phil Klein went over for te winning touchdown on a quarterback sneak from his one-yard line.

But while his team went down shifty-footed Zack Jordan bounced off would-be tacklers time and again and engineered a dangerous passing game for Colorado to leave nothing wanted in a spectacular way.

Colorado outgained the Missourians afoot but the Tigers were effective in the clutches and far more successful in the air where they gained 210 yards to the foe's 109.

On the first play of the game Jordan raced off 30 yards and then by short gains, contributed by Merwin Hodel, Ralph Curtis and himself, the Coloradoans moved up the field. A 15-yard pass, Jordan to Roger Williams, helped and then Jordan passed to Williams for eight yaards and a touchdown.

Glorioso-Ackerman Click

On the next play John Glorioso passed 20 yards to Gene Ackerman, who took the ball on Colorado's 40-yard line and raced the rest of the way for Missouri's opening touchdown.

A few minutes later Missouri scored again, this time Klein passing 23 yards to Junior Wren, who cut back and sprinted 23 more for the touchdown.

In the second quarter, John Glorioso's pass, inteneded for Wren, was intercepted by Royal Shepard for Colorado. Jordan lost nine yards before the Coloradoans could get underway. Then Curtis, on a cutback, picked up 28 badly needed yards. Jordan tossed a couple of 13-yard passes, one to Williams in midfield and another to Hodel, to help out. The Buffaloes then moved into scoring range on short punches and Hodel went over into touchdown country to put the Colorado combine almost even in the game.

Graves Puts Buffs Ahead

Colorado started from its 47-yard line in the third quarter and drove to Missouri's 32-yard line where Dane Graves executed a brilliant cut-back to break out for a touchdown run.

Missouri was not to be had today, however, and quickly swept back in the closing quarter. Tom Brookshier interfered with Bill Hampel as he was trying for Klein's pass and the officials ruled it had been completed. That put the ball on Colorado's 12. Glorioso flipped a short pass to Junior When who seconds later went to the one-yard line. There Klein went on over.

The game ended with Colorado still gamily trying in the air but it was to no avail.

Injuries Suffered In Big Seven Tilts

LAWRENCE, KAS. Nov 11—(AP)—Charley Hoag, Kansas' great ophmore halfback, suffered a slight facial injury and shock in the game against Oklahoma today.

A physician sent Hoag to a hospital after the game for overnight rest, but said the Jayhawk star would be released in the morning.

Hoag left the game early in the fourth quarter while K.U. still held a lead after he suffered a blow in the face that caused blood to flow from his mouth.

However, in the dressing room he was little worse for the injury after it was repaired.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 11—(AP)—Mike Ghnouly, University of Missouri halfback, suffered a broken ankle in today's game here with the University of Colorado.

Fullback Merwin Hodel of Colorado was a casualty early in the game with a bruised back that kept his out of action for the remainder of the afternoon. The injury was not regarded as serious and he remained on the bench to the end.

Williams Paces Irish To Victory Over Pitt

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 11—(AP)—Quarterbacak Bob Williams clicked off two all-time Notre Dame passing records today in hurling the Irish over Pittsburgh's pent-up Panthers 18-7.

Bustling Bob, playing all but two minutes of the game, took almost personal charge in herding Notre Dame to a two-game winning streak, its longest of the season. Nearly 57,000 teeth-chattering fans huddled in 25 degree weather to watch the Irish close their home season and post a 4-3 won-lost mark.

Williams pitched two touchdown passes in the first half for a 12-0 lead then hooked up in a great aerial clash with Pitt's effective Bob Bestwick in the final half.

In all, Williams completed 13 out of 23 tosses for 162 yards. This performance was sufficient to give him a total of 172 connections in 330 attempts through 17 games of his Irish career for a new school record. Angelo Bertelli's records of 169 hits in 324 tries (made in 26 games) were shattered. Bertelli's two marks were made in the number of passes completed and the number tried.

Notre Dame, spotting the Panthers seven points in the third period, hogtied their triumph on an 81 yard surge at the outset of the finale.

Illinois Fans Its Rose Bowl Hopes With 21-7 Win

IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 11—(AP)—Illinois fanned its Rose Bowl scents today with a 21-7 victory over a stubborn Iowa football team refused to fold after giving up three first quarter touchdowns.

Illinois, however, still faces the tremendous task of stopping Ohio State and Northwestern if the Illini are to be sure of a trip to Pasadena for the Jan 1, bowl festivities.

The Illini, exceptionally fast and fronted with a sharp-charging line, struck with devastating fury at the start. They racked up three touchdowns in 9½ minutes and the chilly Dads day crowd of 45,-104 fans nursed through a rout similar to Ohio State's 83-21 rip-up of Iowa.

Next came a 32-yard run back by Dick Raklovits after taking a flat pass from Fred Major.

Football Roundup

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 — (AP) — Ohio State struck a sledgehammer blow for the Big Ten championship and Oklahoma weathered a threat to its record winning streak today as the college football season moved into the stretch.

At the same time Southern Methodist University, the nation's No. 1 team a week ago, suffered its second straiaght setback, losing to Texas A. and M., 25-20. The Mustangs were tumbled from first to seventh by Texas last Saaturday.

The Buckeyes of Ohio State, second ranked nationally, moved a step nearer the Western conference title by beating Wisconsin, 19-14, before 81,535 fans at Columbus.

Bucks Can Cinch Crown

They can clinch the crown by whipping either Illinois next week or Michigan a week later. Illinois, a leading candidate for the Rose Bowl because of Ohio State's ineligibility, kept its hopes alive by turning back Iowa, 21-7.

California virtually clinched the host role in the Pasadena game by smashing UCLA, 35-0. It was the 32nd straight regular season victory for the Golden Bears, who have lost to the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl the last two years. They are ranked sixth.

Oklahoma, the No. 3 team in the country, had its anxious moments before rallying to subdue a fired-up Kansas team at Lawrence, 33-13. The Sooners, who stretched their modern record string of victories to 28, trailed the Jayhawkers at the half, 7-0, and were behind, 13-7, at the end of the third quarter.

The Oklahomans spurted to 26 points in the final period to keep their record going.

SMU was the only casualty today among the first ten.

Army Has It Easy

Top-ranked Army toyed with New Mexico at West Point's Michie Field, winning 51-0, without even dressing such first string backs as Jim Cain and Gil Stephenson.

Kentucky, No. 4, crushed Mississippi State, 48-21, with Babe Parilli's passing again the major factor Parilli passed for three touchdowns to make his season's total 18.

Fifth-ranked Texas had a narrow escape before beating Baylor 27-20, on Bobby Dillon's 84-yard touchdown run in the fourth period.

Princeton, the unbeaten and untied Ivy league power, won under wraps over Harvard, 63-26, letting substitutes play most of the game. Princeton is eighth ranked.

Miami (Fla.), No. 9, was tied by Louisville Friday night, 13-13. Illinois ranks tenth.

Two Upsets in South

The South witnessed two major upsets. The Citadel won its first victory in 24 years over South Carolina, 19-7. Virginia Military stunned Georgia Tech, 14-13.

Wyoming remained among the nation's dwindling list of unbeaten and untied by thrashing Brigham Young, 48-0.

Seven major teams now boast perfect records: Army, Oklahoma, Kentucky, California, Princeton, Wyoming and Loyola (Calif).

Thrice-beaten Notre Dame, the fallen national champion, got to work on a new victory string by subduing Pittsburgh, 18-7. It was the second in a row for the once unconquerable Irish.

Michigan remained in the Rose Bowl picture by repelling Indiana, 20-7. Michigan State mauled Minnesota, 27-0, and Northwestern eked out a win over Purdue, 19-14, in other games involving Big Ten members.

Bright Sets Mark

Johnny Bright of Drake set a new all-time individual offense record by piling up 229 yards in helping beat Iowa State, 35-21. The feat boosted his season's yardage to more than 2,400 to top the previous one-year marak of 2,187 yards set by Georgia's Frankie Sinkwich in 1942.

In the South, Wake Forest topped a favored Duke, 13-7. Tennessee won over Mississippi Tech, 48-14, and Alabama rolled over Mississippi Southern, 53-0, in breather games. Maryland and North Carolina, co-champions of the Southern conference, battled to a 7-7 tie.

Rice edged Arkansas, 9-6 in a "pitchers battle" at Fayetteville, Ark. Tulsa turned back Texas Tech, 39-7.

Dartmouth Trips Columbia

Dartmouth won an important Ivy league encounter from Columbia, 14-7, while Pennsylvania trumped Brown, 50-0. Washington and Lee won an intersectional duel from Delaware, 32-9. Tulane came up from New Orleans to whip Navy at Baltimore 27-0.

In the far West, Stanford beat Washington, 28-18; Washington downed Oregon, 27-12, and Oregon State vanquished Idaho, 34-19.

Slippery Rock beat Clarion Teachers, 20-13.

Kansas Takes Two-Mile Meet

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 11—(AP)—The University of Kansas won a two-mile triangular race over Colorade and Missouri today with a low-point total of 18.

Missouri was second and Colorado third.

The Jayhawkers' Herb Semper won the race in 9:25.6.

Dual meet scores were: Kansas 17, Missouri 20, Kansas 11, Colorado 28, and Missouri 11, Colorado 28.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

SMITH-COTTON'S football Tigers have been snubbed by the Columbia, Mo., Junior Chamber of Commerce, the organization which sponsors the Show-Me Bowl there each year. Snubbed WHY? Maybe because the Jaycees want to hold the beautiful trophy awhile before letting the Tigers come back and take permanent possession—that would probably happen if Smith-Cotton returned this year because they have already won it twice—three times is permanent possession.

The Tigers have a legitimate "squawk" coming. The Jaycees set a precedent in 1949 when they invited Columbia to meet the Tigers in the Bowl—and they got beat again for the second time that year. Columbia, as the CEMO champions, naturally are invited to play in the bowl as are the champions of the conference.

In 1949 the Kewpies, in spite of being the "home town team" had a 7-2 record. They took a beating from Smith-Cotton 20-6, which is equivalent to the 13-0 beating they administered to the Tigers this year. And they also were downed last year by M. M.A. 24-12. Two lost games, mind you, brought them an invitation.

This year the Tigers have a game to go and that is with North Kansas City. Win or lose it, the Tigers are not invited to the bowl anyway.

From here it looks as if the Jaycees at Columbia may ruin a project which had promise of becoming one of the outstanding high school bowl games of the post season. Many more decisions like last year and then ignoring a team, which in accordance with the record of a previous season when they did play in the bowl, may make coaches play shy of even giving Columbia's bowl a thought for fear they may pass up a chance of another bowl.

There is no argument that in time other bowl games will be arranged which will become far more attractive than that at Columbia.

UNDER the present procedure of the Columbia Bowl, Smith-Cotton, if and should they win the Conference championship, would be foolish to even give Columbia a thought of playing there in 1951. If they prove stronger next year, there will probably be some other bowl game which will be more attractive both financially and in competition.

I say this because, if Smith-Cotton should win and Columbia would lose to them in the Conference, the Jaycees might want the Kewpies back to see if they could even up through the series. It didn't happen last year against the Tigers.

But from this desk it appears the Jaycees feared the Tigers might "knock-off" the CEMO Champs in a post season game and kinda make it look bad for the "home town team".

I understand the Tigers have been approached for a bowl game elsewhere after the North Kansas City affair is over. Neither Coach Ralph Dow or Joe Benson, principal of the high school could be contacted Saturday night to ascertain if this is true.

I am not casting any reflections on Higginsville who plays Columbia, this year, but I do say that the Tigers would have drawn a better attendance than will watch the present two teams scrap it out on the gridiron. Higginsville used to be a power in the old Big Seven and had a real team, played much stronger competition than they do now, and I do not believe the team is as strong as the Tigers according to the record.

If Coach Dow does accept a bowl game, the bowl which invites Sedalia to play will see a scrapping bunch of high school football players on the field, and they will reap the benefits of a drawing team as to customers.

IN closing on this high school bowl games I firmly believe bowl games for high school teams are a wonderful thing, not only for the schools but for the boys who play in them. It gives these future university and college players something to crow about when they go off to school. It gives them some prestige.

Bowl games can be and are profitable to sponsoring organization. They help teams to build up their athletic funds, small as it might be. It gives the old fan following the winning high school team something to look forward to—his favorite high school bowl.

But poor judgment can ruin the most successful bowl, especially when it is just beginning to get a good name. It can cause the Bowl to become inferior. Particularly when the management plays up to the hometown team instead of inviting teams with records.

The Kewpies have their record this year, but they didn't in '49.

New Indian Manager Plans Shuffle in Coaching Staff

CLEVELAND, Nov. 11 — (AP) — The Indians' new manager, Altonso Ramon Lopez, today began plotting trades and coaching assignments for the 1951 season. He will be "shooting for the top" but at this stage won't predict a pennant over the tepee.

He went into a huddle with Hank Greenberg, vice president of the Cleveland ball club, at the stadium.

Lopez was believed to be in favor of hiring Jake Flowers, one-time member of the old St. Louis gas house gang, as a coach.

Flowers resigned as president of the Milwaukee Brewers about two months ago. The impression then was that he would prefer a field job to one in a front office. The 48-year-old former shortstop and Lopez were teammates on the Brooklyn squad under manager Wilbert Robinson.

With Pirates Six Years

For six years Flowers served as a coach of the Pittburgh Pirates under Frankie Frisch and also spent a season piloting Salisbury, Md., to a championship in the Eastern Shore league.

Of the Indians' 1950 coaching staff, Mel Harder was considered the best to remain. The former Indian hurler and Lopez have held each other in hig regard ever since they were roommates in 1947, the year catcher Lopez served as coach with the Tribe.

Coach Oscar Melillo has Greenberg's compliments on "a fine job last season," but Lopez has been given free choice and whether Oscar will remain is uncertain.

Ruel To Front Office

Herold (Muddy) Ruel, if not retained as a coach, may get a front office job, possibly that of directing arm personnel.

Al Simmon, who has served one season as a Tribe coach, may not get a new contracat. There is always the possibility that with Jimmy Dykes running the Athletics now, he may summon Simmons back to Philadelphia.

And there is the additional prospect that when the fired Lou Boudreau's fate is settled, he may want some of his old coaching staff at his new post.

Your Host Wins Rich Handicap

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Nov. 11—(AP) — Movie executive William Goetz' California favorite, Your Host, taking charge at the turn into the stretch, rumbled on home today to win the $25,000 Golden State breeders handicap at Hollywood park.

Your Host, the 4-5 favorite, held off the stout challenge of Next Move, one of Alfred G. Vanderbilt's two excellent fillies, to win the $17,500 net prize, while the veteran On Trust closed well for third place.

The time for the mile and one sixteenth feature, unreeled before 36,800 fans, was 1:42 3-5 seconds.

By Skipper Patrick

LAWRENCE, Kas., Nov. 11—(AP)—Butterfingered Oklahoma recovered its poise and blasted Kansas for four fourth quarter touchdowns today, smothering the Jayhawkers, 33 to 13, and running its record victory string to 28 straight football games.

A crowd of 39,000 fans watched in 45-degee weather as the Oklahoma Sooners fumbled themselves into apparent defeat in the first three quarters and for five minutes of the final period.

Then the Oklahomans struck viciously to bring themselves a decisive triumph and the longest victory string for a major college team in modern times.

Sooners Fumble Often

The Sooners coughed up the ball four times and lost it once on a pass interception while on the attack in the first half. Kansas led 7-0 after two quarters, the first time the Sooners had trailed at the half-way mark since the split-T offense was inaugurated at the Oklahoma school in 1946.

It was also the first time in years that Oklahoma failed to score at least one touchdown on the ground. All the Sooner scoring came on its own passing or Kansas aerial miscues.

Kansas had scored twice, once on a Chet Strehlow-to-Lyn Smith pass for 54 yards in the second quarter, and again on halfback Wade Stinson's 71-yard gallop early in the third, before the Sooners got busy. Fox Cashell was good on one of his two conversion attempts to put Jayhawks ahead 13-0.

OU Gets Hot

Then the Oklahomans started moving. They quit fumbling and got together for a 76-yard scoring drive following the kickoff. Quarterback Claude Arnold, who threw for four touchdown passes during the afternoon, hit sophomore Troy Keller for the first Okie score in the third period. Jim Weatherall converted but Oklahoma was still behind 7-13.

Kansas hung on gamely for another few minutes. But the turn of the final period meant disaster as Oklahoma tied it up, 13-13, on Arnold's 32-yard pass to end Jack Lockett and Weatherall's conversion.

Arnold's third touchdown pitch, a honey to halfback Bill Vessells good for 51 yards, put Oklahoma into the lead to stay. Weatherall, a standout tackle on both offense and defense, again converted from placement and for all practical Kansas purposes the firing was over.

Kansas Ralls Apart

Kansas was frustrated — and well beaten from that point on. Oklahoma scored its second of three touchdowns in a three-minute span on Tom Calin's return of a pass interception from the 12-yard line. Weatherall again kicked the point and Oklahoma led 27-13.

The last Oklahoma score came late in the period. This time it was a 16-yard Arnold-to-John Reddell pass that did the trick.

Arnold's pass pitching won the game but Leon (Mule Train) Heath, Oklahoma's ailing but versatile fullback, was the best ground gainer. He had a total of 140 yards on 25 carries although he was guilty of losing the ball twice on fumbles.

Wade Stinson, Kansas halfback, picked up 144 yards rushing on 23 plays against the tough Sooner forewall.

Hoag Injury Stops KU

Kansas lost much of its offensive punch when Charlie Hoag, sophomore halfback ace, left the playing field in a stretcher early in the fourth quarter. Kansas was ahead at the time and Hoag had just completed a 13-yard pass to Smith for a first down on the Oklahoma 44.

Texas Belts Baylor In Insure Loop Lead

WACO, Tex., Nov. 11 — (AP) — Slender Bobby Dillon raced 84 yards behind magnificent blocking late in the fourth quarter today as the University of Texas kicked Baylor out of the Southwest conference title chase, 27-20.

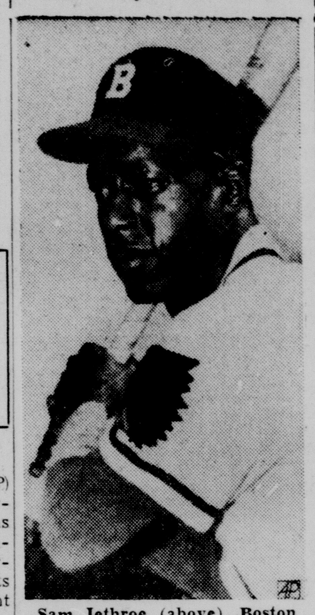

Until he snared Larry Isbell's punt on his own 16 yard line, took a choice of a wave of massive blockers and fled down the sidelines it was anybody's ball game.

But this broke the 20-20 deadlock and shattered the spirit that had brought Baylor from behind a stunning disadvantage in the first few minutes of play.

A fumble on the opening kickoff by Baylor's fleet Buddy Parker set the stage or a quick Texas rally. The Longhorns shot ahead again in the second period after Baylor had tied the score, added one more touchdown in the third and then Dillon put over the clincher.

Jewell Ends Valley Skein In MCAU, 7-6

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11—(AP)—Missouri Valley college's 10-year victory skein in the M.C.A.U. football conference was broken today when William Jewell edged out the Vikings 7 to 6 at Blues stadium.

Adams Boots Point

Jewell's freshman fullback, Gene Adams, brought Valley's downfall after the Vikings had gone undefeated in the conference for 55 games. His placement for the conversion point in the second period after Tom Cook's touchdown was true.

Valley finally got a touchdown in the fourth period but Gene Morrison's conversion try was wide. The Vikings couldn't get to pay dirt again as Jewell held doggedly to its one-point lead.

Long Pass Scores

The William Jewell touchdown came as the result of a 48-yard forward pass from Bob Gadt to Cook which put the ball on the Valley 2-yard line. Cook swept around the end for the score.

Valley, too, used a long run to put the ball within easy scoring distance. Left halfback Leo Partlett ran back a cardinal punt 32 yards to 12-yard line. When the Jewell defense stiffened, Tim Wright shot a pass to Bill Hendrix in the end zone for the touchdown.

An alert and hard charging William Jewell line was the feature of the game.

Deer Season Opens To Archers Monday

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov 11—(AP)—Round five opens Monday in the annual Missouri battle between the whitetail bucks and the bow and arrow enthusiasts.

The deer have built up a clear victory in the first four rounds—not a buck has been killed in the first four special archery seasons.

The 1950 sepecial season, ten days long, is confined to Taney county, on the Arkansas border almost directly south of Springfield.

There have been no reports as to how many bow-hunters will come back again this year for another crack at stalking a fork-horned buck. About 70 archers—generally from St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Springfield and Sedalia—tried in vain last year. The season is open only to Missourians.

The ten day season closes the evening of Nov. 22—the night before Thanksgiving.

Wednesday night an Oklahoma Indian girl, Cecilia Blevins, comes to Sedalia to compete against Elvira Snodgrasas, Columbus, Ohio, in the semi-windup event on the weekly wrestling show at the National Guard Armory. It is the first appearance in the local ring for the Oklahoma girl.

Elvira Snodgrass has appeared before Sedalia ringsiders numerous times and is a proven woman wrestler. She puts plenty of action into her match and if the reputation of the Indian girl holds up the match should be very entertaining.

Meeker Asked For Match

"The Great" Moto, Tokyo, who has enjoyed a lot of action and some narrow wins in the local ring is meeting one of the best in Jerry "Killer" Meeker, of Missoula, Montana. Last week after the match with Esteppe, Meeker asked Promoter Pearl Christy for a "shot" at Moto and he is being obliged by the promoters of the matches. Meeker is in good condition, with lots of experience and should be able to master the Jap.

Kuss Returns to Ring

In the opening contest Otto Kuss of Pine City, Minn., and Fritz Schnabel of San Francisco, Calif., will clash. Kuss has not been here for a long time. He is a six foot four inch Minnesotian with plenty of power and strength.

Walter Sirois has been secured to referee the local matches.

Crocodiles Are Gifts

MELBOURNE—(AP)—A passenger on a crowded tram touched Jerry Randell, 37, of Darwin, on the shoulder and said: "Excuse me, but I see a crocodile coming out of your satchel." Randell pushed the crocodile's head back into the satchel, thanked the passenger, who nodded gravely and resumed reading his newspaper.

Randell is a crocodile and buffalo hunter who is spending a few weeks in Melbourne to recuperate from a bite on his left arm from a 12 foot crocodile. He explained that he was carrying a baby crocodile to Melbourne friends as an "unusual gift in return for hospitality."

Reynolds Sets Two Loop Marks

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 11—(AP)—Rambling Bob Reynolds of Nebraska rang up new Big-Six-Big Seven conference scoring and rushing records today, leading his team to a 49 to 21 victory over Kansas State.

Reynolds broke the rushing record in the third quarter when he dashed 22 yards for his second toucdown. That run gave him a season total of 1,099 yards, one yard better tan the old mark of 1,098 set by Bob Steuber of Missouri in 1942.

It also gave Reynolds 118 point for the season to date, one point better than the old Big Seven record which George Thomas, Oklahoma, established last year.

Three minutes later, Reynolds rambled over for touchodwn No. 3 from the 15-yard line and kicked the point to break Steuber's Bix Six-Big Seven scoring record of 121, also established in 1942. Reynolds now has 125 points.

Reynolds wound up the day with a total of 126 points and 1,151 yards gained rushing this season. He had done his record setting in seven games and has two to play. Steuber took 10 games to set his marks. Today, before 32,000 fans, Reynolds had 23 points and 141 yards rushing, playing only about three quarters of the game.

Long Gains Enable Texas Ags to Skin Mustangs, 25-20

DALLAS, Nov. 11—(AP)—Texas A and M's grinding ground game, with the great Bob Smith pounding a thunderous rhythm, beat Southern Methodist into the Cotton Bowl turf 25-20 today and kept the Aggies in the battle for the Southwestern conference football championship.

Twice the mighty fullback of the cadets got loose on glittering runs, one for 78 yards and another—the game's clincher—for 72 and the Aggies shot down a Southern Methodist team that tried everything and failed.

The result knoocked SMU out of the championship running and, in all likelihood, out of a bowl game. It shot the Aggies into second place in the conference campaign and if they beat Rice next week, will come up to the annual Thanksgiving Day traditional game with Texas with a great chance at the title.

Texas' win over Baylor 27-20 today kept that team in first place in the conference. All others except A. and M., which has lost one game, have been eliminated.

Bright Sets Record As Drake Quiets Cyclones, 35-21

AMES, Ia., Nov. 11 — (AP) — Drake's Johnny Bright, passing and running for all of Drake's scores, set a new all-time total offense record today and led his team to a sweet 35-21 victory over Iowa State.

It was the first time since 1941 the Bulldogs have beaten their Big Seven rival. A chilled crowd of 16,000 saw the 50th meeting of the two schools in Iowa's top intra-state football attraction.

Bright, scoring four touchdowns and passing for a fifth, counted a net total of 229 yards against the Cyclones. This boosted his seaon's total to 2,400 yards. The previous record waas 2,187 set in 1942 by Frankie Sinkwich of Georgia.

The December meeting of the organization will be a Christmas party, on the 14th, at Dan's pioneer room.

After the business sessions there was a social hour, with refreshments served by Mr. and Mrs. Seigel Woodward, host and hostess for the evening.

Mrs. Leach Iris Club Speaker

Mrs. Frank S. Leach, honorary West Central Regional director of Missouri, was the guest speaker at the Iris Garden Club of Cole Camp on Thursday at the home of Mrs. May Wymore.

At 1:00 o'clock a luncheon was served to club members and guests.

Decorations were arrangements of fall flowers and also winter bouquets. Carried out also in the decorations was the Thanksgiving theme.

Mrs. Leach spoke on the subject: "Flowers to Wear" and the members of the Garden Club of Cole Camp who are outstanding flower growers brought many flowers for Mrs. Leach to illustrate her talk with. She spoke on the mechanics of this special art, the color combinations and demonstrated how to make ribbon bows in the fashioning of corsages.

Following Mrs. Leach's talk there were many flowers left over that Mrs. Leach suggested the members try making their own corsages. They were particularly interested in the over the shoulder corsage and each tried to match their corsages to the costumes they were wearing.

Mrs. Leach was a dinner guet of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Grauneman.

New Voices Be Heard In U. S. Senate

Among Them Will Be Thomas C. Hennings, Jr.,

.... By Ed Creagh ....

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—(AP)—You'll be hearing new voices in the U. S. Senate come Janury 3—but mostly they'll be voices that already have made themselves heard in or out of the halls of Congress.

Of the 14 freshman senators chosen in last Tuesday's election, eight have served in the house, two others are veterans of the political wars in their own states and only four are taking elective office for the first time.

Meet the six newcomers to Washington first:

Pennsylvania's Gov. James H. Duff, 67, a political whirlwind in the keystone state, has been a rising figure in national GOP for a long time. A Theodore Roosevent "Bull Mooser" in 1912, he trounced his state's "old guard" orgnization to win the Senate nomination this year His once red hair is gray now, but Jim Duff vibrates with energy and is itching, his friends say, for the presidential nomination in 1952.

In contrast to the bouncy Duff, there's calm, deep-voiced Wallace F. Bennett, Republican senator from Utah. He's a paint and glass manufacturer and the first man west of Chicago to head the National Association of Manufacturer. No friend of the "Fair Deal," Bennett prides himself on good labor relations — says the man who sweeps out his retail store calls him "Wallace." Bennett will be 52 next Monday.

North Carolina's new senator-Democratic, naturally — never sought public office before, but knows haw the wheels go 'round. He's Willis Smith, 62, a corporation lawyer who has been a registered lobbyist for various concerns. Reserved in manner, Smith stands four-square for white supremacy and look-before-you-leap government. He's a former president of the American Bar Association.

Self-made is the word for John Marshall Butler, a lawyer little known outside his native Baltimore until he knocked over Maryland's veteran Democratic Senator Millard E. Tydings. He got active help from Senator McCarthy (R-Wisc). Butler, 53, is an ex-newsboy who once worked for $3 a week in a mattress factory. He banged away on the Communists-in-government theme during his campaign, and has a sharp axe out for Secretary of State Acheson

Son of West

Idaho sends a broad-shouldered, leathery son of the west to the 32nd Congress—Herman Welker, Republican, a rancher-lawyer with a voice and a ringing oratorical syle that can be expected to rattle the walls of the newly-painted Senate chamber. Walker wants no part of what he calls "Fair Deal Socialism." He shares Butler's anti-Acheson views.

But the Truman administration can count on support from the sixth of the Washington newcomers—John O. Pastore, 43, who has moved steadily upward from job to job in Rhode Island and has been its Democratic governor since 1945. Pastore was pushed upward by the rising tide of Italian-American voting strength in New England, and helped along by his friend J. Howard McGrath, now U. S. Attorney General.

Of the eight other senators-elect, four are serving in the House and the others held House seats in the past.

California's Richard H. Nixon, 37, a square-jawed ex-Marine, hit Washington in 1946 and soon made a name for himself. He led the House un-American activities committee into the Alger Hiss-Whittaker Chambers sensation, later co-sponsored the Mundt-Nixon bill that laid the groundwork for the new Communist registration law. Nixon favored the Taft-Hartley labor act but wouldn't go along with Ohio's Senator Taft on a bill to promote housing with federal funds.

The new Democratic senator from Oklahoma, A. S. Mike Monroney, like-wise voted for the union-hated Taft-Hartley Act, but mostly he supports "Fair Deal" measures. Popular in the House, the 48-year-old ex-newspaperman is a hard worker who played a big part in streamlining the sometimes creky law-making machinery of Congress in the middle 1940's.

President Truman's southern Democratic opposition will pick up a recruit in George Smathers, the Florida congressman who unseated his one-time sponsor, Senator Claude Pepper. Smathers, 36, is near the other end of the political scale from the New Deal stalwart Pepper. He stands with the state righters in opposition to civil rights laws, demands economy in government, has no time for what he calls "socialized medicine."

Support Air Force

Economy likewise is the word of Rep. Francis Case, new Republican senator from South Dakota. A rancher and former newspaper publisher, Case authorized the contract renegotiation bill that saved the government some $10,000,000,000 in World War Two costs He also fought for a union control bill tougher than the Taft-Hartley Act. Case went all-out in support of a 70-group air force when the administration wanted a smaller one.

Of the four ex-congressmen soon to become senators, Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., has the distinction of being the only Democrat to beat a Republican incumbent in 1950. Hennings, 47, turned out Sentor Forrest Donnell in Missouri after trimming a Truman-backed candidate in the primary. The President endorsed the big, hearty Hennings in the end, however, although Hennings is no supporter of the Truman national health program or the Brannan farm price plan. A lawyer and World War Two naval officer, Hennings favors many administration policies, in foreign affairs especially.

Like Pastore in Rhode Island, Gov. Earle C. Clements of Kentucky has had a slow but sure advance in Democratic politics. He returns to Washington as a senator after serving in the House from 1946 to 1950. Clements, 54, is an amiable middle-of-the roader. He backs the Truman foreign policy, is inclined to shake his head over some "Fair Deal" domestic proposals.

Ex-Congressman Everett Dirksen of Illinois dropped out of politics for a while because of eye trouble. There was nothing wrong with his eyesight, however, when he fixed his glance on the Senate seat held—until now—by the administration leader, Scott Lucas. Big, rumpled "Ev" Dirksen, 54, a laywer with a fine flair for courtroom-style oratory, originally backed the Marshall Plan but changed his mind after a European inspection tour. He was an early member of the get-tough-with Russia bloc and a foe of high government spending.

Kansas' newly-elected senator, Frank Carlson, would take no offense at all if called conservative. With many another midwest House Republican, he fought many New Deal domestic measures every step of the way, and opposed with tight-lipped firmness this country's growing involvement in European affairs before World War II. Carlson, 57, has been governor of Kansas. He's a farmer and stockman as well.

Hope In The Easement of Hostilities In North Korea

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

There is a gleam of hope for easement of the Korean strife in the disclosure that nine Chinese Communists are coming to Lake Success to discuss the Korean and Formosan issues with the United Nations.

This is the outgrowth of an invitation from the Security Council to the Red regime in Peiping to confer regarding the Communist charge that the United States had invaded Formosa. A natural corollary is the projected discussion of the much more dangerous Korean question.

As things stand, Korea is a potential breeding ground for another world war. With Chinese Red troops—estimated by General MacArthur's headquarters at 60,000—already intervening in North Korea, and United Nations forces surging closer to the Korean-Manchurian frontier, the situation has become highly explosive.

One somewhat encouraging aspect of this situation is that the Chinese government has persisted in calling these Chinese troops "volunteers." This is taken to mean that the Peiping regime hasn't wanted to become officially identified with this dangerous intervention.

Exact Heavy Strain

If the Korean war dragged out for years, that would put a heavy economic and military strain on the United States and other U. N. nations involved.

However, there has been no indication that Russia intends to push China far enough to precipitate a major conflict. Russia doesn't want another world war—at least not now. And China certainly hasn't any desire to get involved deeply with the western powers.

That is the background of the forthcoming conference of the Chinese Communists with the United Nations. Coincident with this we get from an American staff officer at Eighth army headquarters in Korea the intriguing statement that Chinese Communist forces may be avoiding battle with U. N. troops pending high level diplomatic moves which would affect the course of the war.

"It is a very puzzling situation," said the officer. "The war is now in a strange phase in which diplomatic moves perhaps are as important as military moves."

At the same time the officer didn't discount the possibility that while Red forces might be cautiously holding up any offensive action pending diplomatic moves in the U. N. It also was possible they might be regrouping for an offensive.

Apropos of this unusual situation there also is this point to consider: The problem might become impossible of solution if the Chinese were forced into a position in which they couldn't back up any further without losing face. As the major power of Asia, China can't afford to lose face—a highly important consideration among Asiatic peoples.

This naturally gives rise to the thought that the difficulty might be overcome if a situation could be created which would give the Chinese in Korea a chance to withdraw without losing face. In view of this, one wonders whether that thought won't play an important part in the forthcoming conference between the Chinese delegates and the U. N.

P. T. A. Told Of Convention

The Bothwell P.T.A. meeting, presided over by the president, Mrs. Junior Greer, opened with the singing of "America the Beautiful."

Mrs. Greer told of the recent P.T.A. convention in St. Louis which she attended.

Many were masked and dressed in Hallowe'en costumes. Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Scotten and Mrs. Melvin Dexheimer served as judges in selecting the best character. John Mettenberg won first, Harry Joe Runge, second, and Tommie Crain, third.

Refreshments of pie, cocoa and coffee were served.

Pettis County Girl In Contest

Loretta Hayes Robb, Houstonia, will represent Pettis county in the tenth annual $6,00 production-marketing contest of the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association, it was announced at Columbia today by R. S. Clough,, State 4-H Club Leader, and state NJVGA leader.

Loretta is seeking the nation's junior vegetable growing championship and a share of the cash awards and scholarships provided by A & P Food Stores. She will compete with other teen-aged tillers of the soil throughout the country.

The contest is really an educational program designed to help farm youths learn, use and develop new and more efficient methods of growing and selling vevetables. It offers a $500 award for the national champion four $200 regional championships, thirty-three $160 sectional championships and four state awards for each state. Winners are determined by a judging board of college profesors and officials of the United States Department of Agriculture. They will be announced during the NJVGA convention at New Orleans this December, where about 500 farm youths are expected to gather for the association's sixteenth annual meeting.

In naming the local NJVGA contestant, Clough emphasized the program's value to Pettis county where the sale of vegetable crops forms an important part of the county's income.

Crossroads Comment

by G. H. S.

When one leaves behind a record of many years of assiduous service to his community and employer, a widespread fraternity of friends, devotion to church and love of family there is in such a record the essence of immortality that requires not letters on stone.

In the bank, in the church, in his lodge and in his home, Joe Reid came in contact with many people during his lifetime in Sedalia. Some failed to understand him, but these were few. Others measured him by performance of the duties assigned him or those which he voluntarily accepted and discharged as a civic responsibility.

In light of this record the manner of Joe's going becomes superficial. He left behind a wonderful family whose grief may be modified in the knowledge that their husband and father was a "good Joe."

—O—

Although election results created "consternation" in certain political camps throughout the nation, the real objective of the voters was to create "moderation."

We'll probably hear little about "mandates" like in 1948. Certainly the Republicans have a feeling of triumph. But Mr. Average Man, the one who is responsible for the significant trend, raises no victory shout but merely takes a deep breath of relief. He and a few millions of his fellow countrymen succeeded at the polls in registering a protest they intend to resist administration extremists and fanatical leaders of minority groups who seek to impose their will on the nation.

Brother, it's a healthy sign be you Democrat or Republican.

It looks like the voters of both parties have issued a challenge they no longer are going to be high-pressured by the left-wingers and those who preach the philosophy of abundance for their followers and an austerity program for the dissidents.

Yes, the Republican candidates in the election are beneficiaries of a triumph by the voters. But you know how dumb those Republicans can be. Give them two years and they can foul up things like they did after 1946, playing into the hands of the Fair Dealers. The Missouri GOPers haven't caught on yet judging by their lack of state party harmony.

To many genuine Democrats there is a hopeful sign in Tuesday's results that Democratic leadership presently or in the future will put the brakes on the use of their party vehicle for an uncontrolled joy ride down the road to socialism. The people are for a liberal program, but not that liberal.

There are liberals in the Republican ranks and liberals in the Democratic ranks to whom the voters have indicated they will turn their favor if the Fair Dealers don't cease their impetuousity and bungling of the nation's domestic and foreign affairs.

Prior to the election there may have been outward signs of apathy, but the silence of the independent voter became thunderous last Tuesday. Democrat and Republican politicians may take the cue, we hope.

—O—

A wise man once said that the mind grows sicker than the body in contemplation of its sufferings.

Stress and strain and inner conflicts are the experiences at one time or another of almost every human being. Some give expression to them which is a form of confession that eases the mind. Others conceal their pain under a cloak of placidity rather than share it with or disturb their loved ones.

When a bone is placed under too much strain, it cracks. This cause and effect is so elementary by actual demonstration that it meets with common acceptance. No one would reproach another for suffering a broken bone upon which a timber had fallen. A man might be censured for not crying out for help, but even so the bone would be broken.

Apart from the realm of the physical, there is the mind, a mysterious substance upon which the complexities of modern society exert fatiguing pressures. Under such conditions, symbolically speaking, cannot the mind crack the same as a bone? This is coming to be a conventional belief which assuages grief and nullifies the old-fashioned and uncharitable stigma that once attached itself to those whose minds are troubled.

In this respect some pagan races were more charitable than Christians are in their commiseration.

There is more frailty in the minds of every human being than people want to admit. The wonder is that God tolerates perpetuation of mind in human body to be used for purposes of criticism, meanness, disrespect for fellow men and anti-God philosophy when it should be devoted to Charity, Brotherly Love and Fidelity.

Warren And Taft Stand Out As 1952 GOP Prospects;

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON.—Jubilant Republican leaders now pretty much agree that two big names have come out of the elections as presidential possibilities for 1952. They are also confident there is enough of the "kick-the-rascals-out" sentiment, which usually attaches itself to a party long in power, to make the GOP nomination in 1952 the most glittering goal since 1928.

The two candidates who stand out are:

1. GOV. EARL WARREN of California, who not only defeated a Roosevelt, but did it in a state which has a 2-to-1 Democratic registration. Two years ago, following Warren's defeat on the Dewey ticket, he was considered a dead duck. But now, in control of the second most populous state in the union, he is probably candidate No. 1 for 1952.

2. SEN. ROBERT A. TAFT of Ohio, who not only won the largest margin of victory in his career, but did it with all the forces of organized labor pitted against him. This makes him a far stronger candidate than at any time in his eight years of angling for the presidency. Conservative party leaders, always strong for Taft, are now enthusiastic over his future—despite statements that he is no longer a candidate.

To a lesser extent Governor Dewey and Senator-elect Jim Duff of Pennsylvania are also in the presidential picture, but are not considered potent possibilities—Duff because of his age, Dewey because of political superstition against a two-time loser.

Democratic Soul-Searching

Some important soul-searching is going on among Truman advisers regarding the future of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. Here is what it boils down to:

The President would never fire Acheson, considers him a great secretary of state. But, on the other hand, many Truman advisers feel that Acheson was the chief reason for losing the election. His statement defending Alger Hiss left him wide open, they say, and the Republicans made the most of it. Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois, who talked to Truman about this in advance of the election, is especially bitter, feels that several Senators were defeated because of Acheson.

They compare the present situation to that of Sumner Welles, who was undersecretary of state in the Roosevelt administration and resigned in 1943 because of differences with Cordell Hull. At that time FDR offered Welles the post of special ambassador to Moscow to iron out differences which were beginning to crop up between the U.S.A. and U.S.S.R.

Welles refused.

"The most important problem facing you and the world," he told FDR at that time, "is a peace treaty and its ratification by the Senate. Cordell Hull has powerful friends in the Senate. I have not. And any agreement I brought back from Russia or any peace treaty I helped to plan would not be approved by the Senate."

So Welles resigned and Cordell Hull went to Moscow.

End of Bipartisan Policy

Today, unfortunately, Acheson policies have been under such political fire that bipartisan foreign policy has blown up in smoke.

Actually, important Republicans are working inside the State department with Acheson—among them, John Foster Dulles, right-hand adviser to Governor Dewey. He helped establish U.S. policy in China.

Also Warren Austin, former Republican Senator from Vermont, is U.S. ambassador to the United Nations; while Walter Gifford, a top New York Republican, is ambassador to London; and Andrew Mellon's former son-in-law, David Bruce, is ambassador to France. Various other Republicans hold other State Department posts; while it remains a fact that original U.S. policy in China was fixed by non-political Gen. George Marshall.

Nevertheless, Acheson has received the blame. Chief result is strained relations with Congress, inflexible foreign policy, and the loss of Democratic Senators at the polls.

Poor Public Relations

At 11 p.m., just after Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman had been bitterly attacked by Senator Schöeppel of Kansas for being pro-Communist, Chapman's phone rang. He had just finished testifying before a Senate committee in which he set forth an array of convincing facts blistering Schoeppel, and Acheson phoned to congratulate him.

"I am not in the habit of calling people as late as this," he told Secretary Chapman. "But I wanted to tell you what a masterful defense you made today. It made me realize that if I had taken the time to do the same thing when I was first attacked, my situation today might have been entirely different."

NOTE 1—Many diplomats feel that a secretary of state who cannot carry public opinion with him, cannot mold foreign policy in a government where policy must be ratified by the Senate.

NOTE 2—Truman, who has publicly defended his old friend, Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City after he went to jail, can forgive Acheson for defending his friend Alger Hiss when on trial. What neither seems to realize is that when you hold high public office, friendships must play second fiddle to national policy. FDR, who did realize this, was bitterly criticized for not being loyal to his friends.

Merry-Go-Round

The Republican sweep was such a surprise to GOP national headquarters that it was not until after midnight on election night that they began to celebrate. . . . Bill Mylander, the GOP's publicity chief, cautiously kept the lid on, discouraged both Chairman Guy Gabrielson and Harold Stassen from victory claims. . . . "We have had so many disappointments in the past," explained one old-timer, "that we don't want to go out on a limb and get sawed off again." . . . From the time the returns started coming in, until 10 p.m., the atmosphere at the old mansion on Connecticut avenue was as glum as a funeral parlor. Finally, when victories seemed certain for Taft in Ohio and Dewey in New York, Republican bigwigs allowed cautious smiles. . . . "They were like a kid who hopes the package under the Christmas tree is a sled but doesn't dare look," declared one onlooker. . . . Finally, at 12:30, Gabrielson's round face was beaming happily, and he allowed the time had come to break out the liquor.

Awaiting the Signal--

HE CAME TO KILL

AIDED by a benevolent taxi driver and the fact that he was, after all, a Thorne, Jasper arrived home a few minutes after Sondra had been put to bed and left under the watchful—if accusing—eye of Mrs. Carstairs.

"Pay the gennulman," Jasper said thickly, staggering through the doorway under the steadying assistance of the poker-faced young man. "Be a good guy, pay 'im. I'm—" He looked at Leeana, eyes widening, seeing her, apparently, for the first time. "Cousin, you look — Whash — what's the matter?"

Leeana told him, being purposely blunt. It might sober him up to hear that Peter had fled, perhaps to escape arrest for murder.

"You mean good ol' Pete— Oh, no!" He began to laugh wildly. "Don't tell me my wife hitched her wagon to a murderer!"

Bitterness came into his maudlin glee and sobriety seemed a bit nearer. Leeana wondered, fleetingly, how he would feel about that outburst in the morning. If anyone reminded him of it. Now, though, he rocked back on his heels, steadied himself with an effort—and stopped laughing.

Leeana took his arm. "Come, Jasper, let's get some coffee."

She urged him toward the door, but Jasper hung back. He bobbed his head at the taxi driver and said belligerently:

"Go on, sonny. Tell 'im. Tell 'im you picked me up at the Red Ace 'n' not at that crummy Bijou."

Leeana saw alertness come into the sheriff's eyes, where it mingled with suspicion that had been slumbering — until now. Jasper was talking himself right out of an alibi, if— Realizing she was on a mental merry-go-round, back again to her momentary belief that Peter had been murdered, too, Leeana fixed her attention on what the sheriff was saying.

"Then you didn't see the picture?"

"No— Say, what is this?" He stopped, bewildered; then, slowly, "You're not being on the level with me, Purdy. You think something's happened to Pete, don't you? You think I killed him."

JASPER'S voice was cracked; his mouth twisted as though fear, suspicion and selfishness were a bitter mixture indeed; his hands—Jasper's hand were like Peter's, long-fingered, soft, filled with dangerous strength. It might have been Jasper's hands at Leeana's throat that night.

Jasper could have slipped out the side door at the theater. And no one knew how long he had been at the Red Ace bar . . . Leeana clicked off in her own mind the time needed to come to Thorne Hill, kill Peter, and return to town.

Of course he had a motive! Peter gave everyone who knew him the motive for murder—hate, fear, revenge. Everyone at Thorne Hill felt one of those emotions where Peter Thorne was concerned.

But which of them had killed him?

It seemed unlikely to be the meek little man who spent long hours at his typewriter, composing letters that the editor of the Thorne City Gazetter sometimes published merely because of Jasper's persistence. But when Leeana recalled his poorly concealed desperation the night Miss Maggie informed them of the planned changes in her will, she could think of Jasper as the man to do murder.

The sheriff was talking again, explaining to Jasper about the long search that had been climaxed by Sondra's collapse.

"My men are still out," he continued. "They can't find a trace of your brother. Certainly he isn't here at the house and he hasn't gone to town. We got a line on you pretty quick, up to a point—where you can begin to fill in now. Pronto, so I can call in my men."

"Before they find Peter?" Jasper taunted. "Why, sheriff!"

Jittery as he still was, Jasper had sobered enough to see the spot he was in and to attempt to talk his way out of it. Leeana saw his mistake even if he did not, for Purdy's face went hard. He was curt as he dismissed the taxi driver after taking his name.

"Now then," he said, turning again to Jasper. "Answer me this: Where were you at the time Miss Maggie was killed?"

"I told you. In my room."

"That's a lie!" Purdy shot at him so vehemently that Leeana jumped. "You were on the prowl somewhere in this house. You know Peter was not with your wife because you saw him upstairs. And for that reason you know your wife may be lying, too. Right?"

For a long time Jasper didn't speak. Then he muttered hoarsely, "You know it is," and walked away from them.

LEEANA was afraid to look at the sheriff, afraid of the knowledge she would see in his face. So Jasper was upstairs, too. Maybe he had been listening at the door when Peter gave her the lavaliere. . . . How else could he have known about it? The coppery taste of fear was on her tongue as she watched Jasper go up the stairs and disappear.

"It's closing," the sheriff said softly.

So the trap was closing at last. On whom? Leeana asked herself, would it be Jasper, or Peter, or someone else?

Miss Agatha appeared at the head of the stairs, wraith-like in her long flowing gown and faded wrapper.

"You — you'd best come up, Clem." Her voice seemed to be reaching for hysteria; she put a hand to her lips, as though to pull it down. "It's Sondra. She's—gone."

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

Fred Rush Saturday sold his half interest in the grocery at 114 West Main street to his business partner, W. B. Wilson.

S. E. Reynolds, of St. Louis, purchased Saturday from Marion Riley an improved two and a half acre tract of land at Twenty-sixth street and Kentucky avenue. He intends to make his home there.

A permit was issued by City Engineer F. T. Leaming for the erection of a 70 by 60 feet brick church building for the Central Presbyterian church at Fifth street and Lamine avenue, the cost to be $12,000.

The confectionery store and residence of Condi McHugh, a former Sedalia police officer, residing at 818 East Third street, was damaged to considerable extent by fire Saturday.

When cold air flows over warm land or water, the vapor rising from the latter is quickly condensed to produce fog.

Although sugar beets and sugar canes are not chemically related, sugar from both is identical.

Video: Boon to Politicians

The year 1950 will go down in history as the one in which television, the comic book and the helicopter came to political campaigning in a big way.

We had TV with us in 1948, of course, but not on the present scale. For example, in New York Governor Dewey wound up his vote appeal with an 18-hour marathon on TV.

This TV approach represents real work for the candidates. They have to primp for the cameras like prima donnas. They have to worry about a hundred little things that don't matter in ordinary radio broadcasts.

But they're no more reluctant to undertake these exacting chores than they would be to pick up a shovel in the midst of our vast gold stocks at Fort Knox. One nominee for high office in a big state summed it up neatly:

"Shucks, television's wonderful for us. People will watch ANYTHING on their TV sets."

Colorful Ernest Bevin

Ernest Bevin, Britain's foreign secretary, has an idea that the color of a conference room has a lot to do with whether the meeting is a success or not.

He says international gatherings are more apt to flop if the walls of the meeting room are green or brown. Something too somber about these tones, he feels, and that depresses the delegates and pre-disposes them to disagree.

Now for a good cheerful color that will keep the boys smiling and give them that urge to sign on the dotted line, Ernie suggests "sunshine yellow."

We've had no report from the psychologists on this yet, but if there's anything to what Bevin says, the United Nations ought to revise its interior color schemes pronto in the new UN buildings in New York.

Question for the skeptics: "Will yellow really neutralize Red?"

• So They Say

I feel that our boys need our support and it is no more than right that we (women) get in there and give them a hand.

"IT WILL SPRING UP OUT OF THE EARTH"

We have seen that we were predestined by the very laws of our being to be Christian. This is the predestination I believe in with all my heart. Dr. Bosworth once said, "If the principles of Jesus were torn out of the heavens, they would spring up out of the earth." And out of the nature of our very beings. You have Christian lungs, Christian glands, a Christian stomach, a Christian heart, a Christian liver, a Christian nervous system—the total organization is Christian; and to put these organs to unchristian uses is to throw them out of gear—and worse—to grind the gears of life against each other, to live in inner conflict.

"It will spring up out of the earth." Dr. Henry Link, in his study of psychology, gave up Christianity as an outmoded superstition. When, however, he began to try to untangle snarled-up lives, he found he had to give them something outside themselves to love. The only thing permanent he could give them was God; and soon he found he was talking himself back into being a Christian. Life wouldn't come out right in any other way. He became a Christian, and wrote two great books on the Christian way, led back to it by the very pressures of life. The Christian way, torn from the heavens, sprang up out of the earth. The study of psychology and the study of physiology will lead to the conclusion of Aunt Het, who says quaintly: "Nature tries to make us good. I used to get awful mad years ago, but I had to quit because it gave me bad digestion." Dr. Frank Crane says: "Depression, gloom, despair, pessimism — these slay ten persons to every one murdered by typhoid, influenza, diabetes, or pneumonia. If tuberculosis is the great white plague, fear is the great black plague." But fear, depression, gloom, despair, pessimism are all unchristian. They slay, so the newspaper columnists say. "It will spring up out of the earth." Nature is unfolding her book, and her finger points to the central passage of the whole, and that passage reads, "Be Christian."

To be Christian is your destiny.

O Thou loving, relentless, redeeming Owner, I find Thy marks upon my being. And now I countersign Thy writing—countersign it with deep consent. Brand Thy stamp of ownership in me. For I cannot wander unowned and unclaimed. Thy mind the climate of my being. I thank Thee. Amen.

The Doctor Says—

Passage of Kidney Stone Is A Very Painful Experience

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Many people who have experienced different kinds of painful illnesses claim that passing a kidney stone is the worst of all. At any rate there is no doubt that someone who has had this difficulty never wants to go through it again and dreads the possibility of another attack.

Exactly what causes kidney stones is still somewhat uncertain. The chemical nature of stones is not alike in all cases, so that probably the causes are not always the same. They form in a part of the kidney, and may stay in this part without producing symptoms for a long time. Infection, slow flow of urine, diet, and perhaps other things are believed to lead to the formation of these hard chemical compounds.

When a stone leaves the kidney and starts to pass down the small, sensitive passageway to the bladder, the plain starts. This is usually accompanied by blood in the urine, and by excrusiating pain which is likely to be felt in the back . At this stage of the game the sufferer needs relief from the pain more than anything else. This usually requires morphine, often in large quantities. Besides relieving the immediiate pain, the morphine causes relaxation, and may make it easier for the stone to pass on to the bladder.

Unfortunately, the passage of one stone is too often the sign that others have formed, and may start their own painful courses later on. Long range planning must therefore be put in effect. The stone must be obtained and analyzed chemically. A search must be made for infection in the urinary organs or elsewhere in the body. The urine must be tested to find out whether it is acid or alkaline. A study must be made of the diet to find out whether anything is wrong there.

Pain Can Be Extreme

Sometimes a stone does not pass of itself and the pain and other symptoms remain intolerable. When this happens the passage of the stone sometimes can be aided by oiling or by the use of the delicate instruments which are now available. One way or another, however, the single stone can usually be removed and the only problem that remains is to study ways and means of preventing later trouble.

Diet is recognized as exceedingly important in the prevention of kidney stones. Some foods for example, like rhubarb (in large quantities) are known to enter into the formation of certain kinds of chemical stones. Diet always plays a part in the formation of other kinds of chemical stones, and can also be used to change the reaction of the urine from acid to alkaline of vice versa. The last is a measure of great importance.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Q. My son is being drafted next week. Is there any chance of his getting into West Point?

A. Under a quota allotted by law certain enlisted men in the regular Army and Air Force can get into West Point. Applicants must have passed their 17th but not their 22nd birthday by July 1 of the year of entrance to the Academy. All applicants must be citizens of the U. S., have completed one full year of active enlisted service in the United States Army or Air Force, and if admitted to the school must be in active enlisted status at that time.

Regulations provide further that applicants must never have been married and must have been graduated from high school or have achieved the equivalent education. An applicant must also pass a rigid physical exam, much tougher than the one given by draft doctors.

Q. My son has been in the Navy since last August. Does he get any pay? If, so, how much and when?

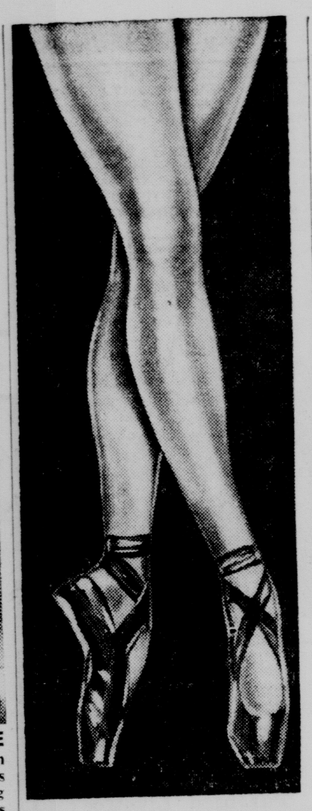

A. Your son is probably getting $75 a month and possibly $80. He gets it twice a month.

Q. It has been a life's ambition to get in the Navy. But I only have one eye. Will they take me on a waiver or under any circumstances?

A. No

SUNNING BLONDE — Cleo Moore, blonde motion picture actress, smilingly prefers a sun tan at this time to taking a plunge into the pool at Los Angeles, Calif.

Most famous legs in the motion picture world today are these, symbolizing "The Red Shoes," which opens Wednesday at the Uptown theatre for its first popular-priced showing after a phenomenal over-a-year run in New York and elsewhere, has established new standards not merely in technique and subject-matter, according to many critics, but in the number and variety of laurels it has gathered. No less than three Academy Awards went to it. The National Board of Review named it one of the year's Ten-Best. The New York film critics agreed, and placed it on their own list of the Ten-Best. The Encyclopedia Britannica chose it to illustrate the motion picture section of the 1949 Britannica Book of the Year.

Presented by J. Arthur Rank and released by Eagle Lion Films, "The Red Shoes" is based on a classic fairy tale by Hans Christian Anderson, the first of that master's writings to reach the screen. It is filmed in sharp-focus Technicolor, and was prepared by the outstanding writer-director-producer team of Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger. Starring dramatic roles are performed by Anton Walbrook, Marius Goring and Moira Shearer.

"The Red Shoes" won the "Oscar" for best music and that Sir Beecham and the Royal Philharmonic cut the score of "The Red Shoes." Moreover, the music of the Red Shoes Ballet is original and composed especially for this film by Brian Easdale, one of England's best.

Paul Douglas and Keenan Wynn in a scene from the riotous story of a beauty and a mug, "Love That Brute," which opens today at the Liberty Theatre. Co-starred are Jean Peters, Cesar Romero and Joan Davis. Companion feature on the ifrst-run twin bill program at the Liberty is "The Lawless" with MacDonald Carey and Gail Russell.

ALL ABOARD...HERE'S ROY ACUFF!

Roy Acuff and his Smoky Mountain Boys team up with Allan Lane and Adele Mara in this scene from "Night Train To Memphis," showing tonight along with "Yokel Boy," starring Albert Decker and Joan Davis at the 50 Hi-way Drive-In Theatre

Peggy Cummins and Richard Greene in one of the romantic scenes from "If This Be Sin," which also stars Myrna Loy. Co-hit on this program is the latest Joe Palooka hit, "Humphrey Takes A Chance." This program plays today thru Tuesday at the Uptown Theatre.

Tied and gagged, stowaway Linda Darnell is brought back to Fort Thorn by Confederate officer Joseph Cotten in "Two Flags West," starting today at the Fox Theatre. An amazing Civil War adventure, when the blue and the gray stood and fought together, the new film also co-stars Jeff Chandler (of "Broken Arrow" fame) and Cornel Wilde.

DOUBLE TAKE — Hollywood actress Andrea King, visiting a California Marine base, picked up a beauty title. Leathernecks stared appreciatively and tagged Andrea "the second look girl."

Green Ridge

Mrs. Verna Palmer

Mrs. R. A. Stark, assisted by Mrs. Mattie Myers and Mrs. E. J. Sims, was hostess to the members of the Green Ridge Garden club on Tuesday afternoon at her home on South Main street. Refreshments consisting of an apple ring salad, open face sandwiches, cookies and spiced tea were served by the hostesses at 1:30 o'clock. The first vice-president, Mrs. Harley Williams, presided over the meeting in the absence of the president. Roll call was answered by my favorite Thanksgiving poem. During the meeting ne new member, Mrs. George Ferguson of Ionia, was welcomed in to the club. Green and white were the club colors decided on and the club flower was changed to gladiolia. The annual Christmas dinner and party will be held at the home of Mrs. E. J. Sims on December 13.

The program for the afternoon was a book review. Mrs. Milford Lewis presented a very interesting review of the book, "Skinny Angel," by Thelma Jones. Mrs. Wilford Acker gave an interesting demonstration on the judging of floral arrangements.

Mrs. G. D. Rayburn and Mrs. C. A. Stoddard judged the arrangements that were brought for display. There were twenty members present.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Myers are the parents of a son, born at the Community hospital in Windsor in Sunday night about 11:15 o'clock. The name of Kenneth Eugene has been given the baby. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ragar of Green Ridge are the maternal grandparents of the baby and Mrs. Dixie Myers of near Camp Branch store is the paternal grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ragar and children, Jeannie and Gary, suffered minor injuries in an automobile accident last Sunday night, when the car in which they were riding, struck a moving flat railroad car on North street in Windsor. There is a hill and a dip near this crossing and the lights of the car shown above the railroad car and Mr. Ragar did not see the moving flat car until they were almost upon it. He turned it and run it down the side of the tracks. The car was badly wrecked but the family escaped with minor injuries. Mrs. Ragar was the most severely injured, she was badly bruised and suffered cuts on her head and face.

Fear Denies Aid to Red Victim

SINGAPORE — (AP) — A Malay taxicab driver whom Communists trussed before setting his cab on fire, had a harrowing experience when he discovered that no one dared untie his bonds.

With hands bound behind his back, the driver made his way to a main road where he boarded a bus. The bus conductor dared not release him, so he allowed the man to dig in his pocket for the fare. A score or more passengers in the bus refused to touch him.

The driver finally disembarked at a police station. Only here were his bonds untied.

"HANDS-OFF" FLIGHT PLAN—The pilot and co-pilot of the Navy's XHJP-1 helicopter stick both hands out the windows to show that the craft is flying "on instruments." Flight tested at the Piasecki Helicopter plant at Morton, Pa., the 'copter is the first to employ the automatic pilot long used on commercial and military planes. The ship is designed to overcome the serious complaint of "pilot fatigue" among rotary wing fliers—fatigue brought on by the complexity of helicopter controls and the great amount of energy required to keep the craft stable and on course.
